We, the staff of the '62 Bear Tracks, dedicate this yearbook to the achievements of John Marshall students. In the past much has been attained and we look upon it with pride. It is from these past achievements that we find inspiration for the future. We realize that pride and self-assurance are not to be confused. So, we face the future not with conceit but with enthusiasm. Looking forward to new horizons, we find willingness and the desire to succeed serving as tools assisting in the construction of a better life for each of us.

Achievement is intangible, as it may be seen and felt only through trophies and rewards. However, it manifests itself by creating the desire to attain greater heights and by encircling the student with a sense of accomplishment. May this sense of achievement surround every person in John Marshall and serve as a firm foundation for the construction of his life.

The Staff of the 1962 Bear Tracks

John Marshall High School

John Marshall Junior-Senior High School, that modern structure located on University Avenue in Oklahoma City is the scene of continual progress in the field of education. The building is one of the educational centers for northwest Oklahoma City.

In this school year of 1961-62, approximately 2600 students crowd into the halls of the modernistic structure made of steel, concrete, brick and glass. Taught by a 99 member faculty, these students spend well over two million hours in the classroom each year. Over half of the instructors have Master's Degrees.

The high school is a member of the North Central Association which demands high educational qualifications for continuing membership.

Not far from this three million dollar building are Edgemoor Theater, scene of musical highlights throughout the summer season, the Cowboy Hall Of Fame and Oklahoma City University. On the campus are a football practice field, baseball field, and a girls' and boys' gymnasium.

Achievement is the aim of the school's faculty and students. Achievement in academic areas, on the playing fields and in one's personal life. We take aim at achievement as surely as the space scientists aim toward the ultimate conquering of outer space. For the ultimate hope of all is a rich, full, satisfying future which can only be gained through continual achievement. For us, all begins with . . .

JOHN MARSHALL HIGH SCHOOL

A Proud Achievement

Library Leads Searching Students to Research, Relaxation

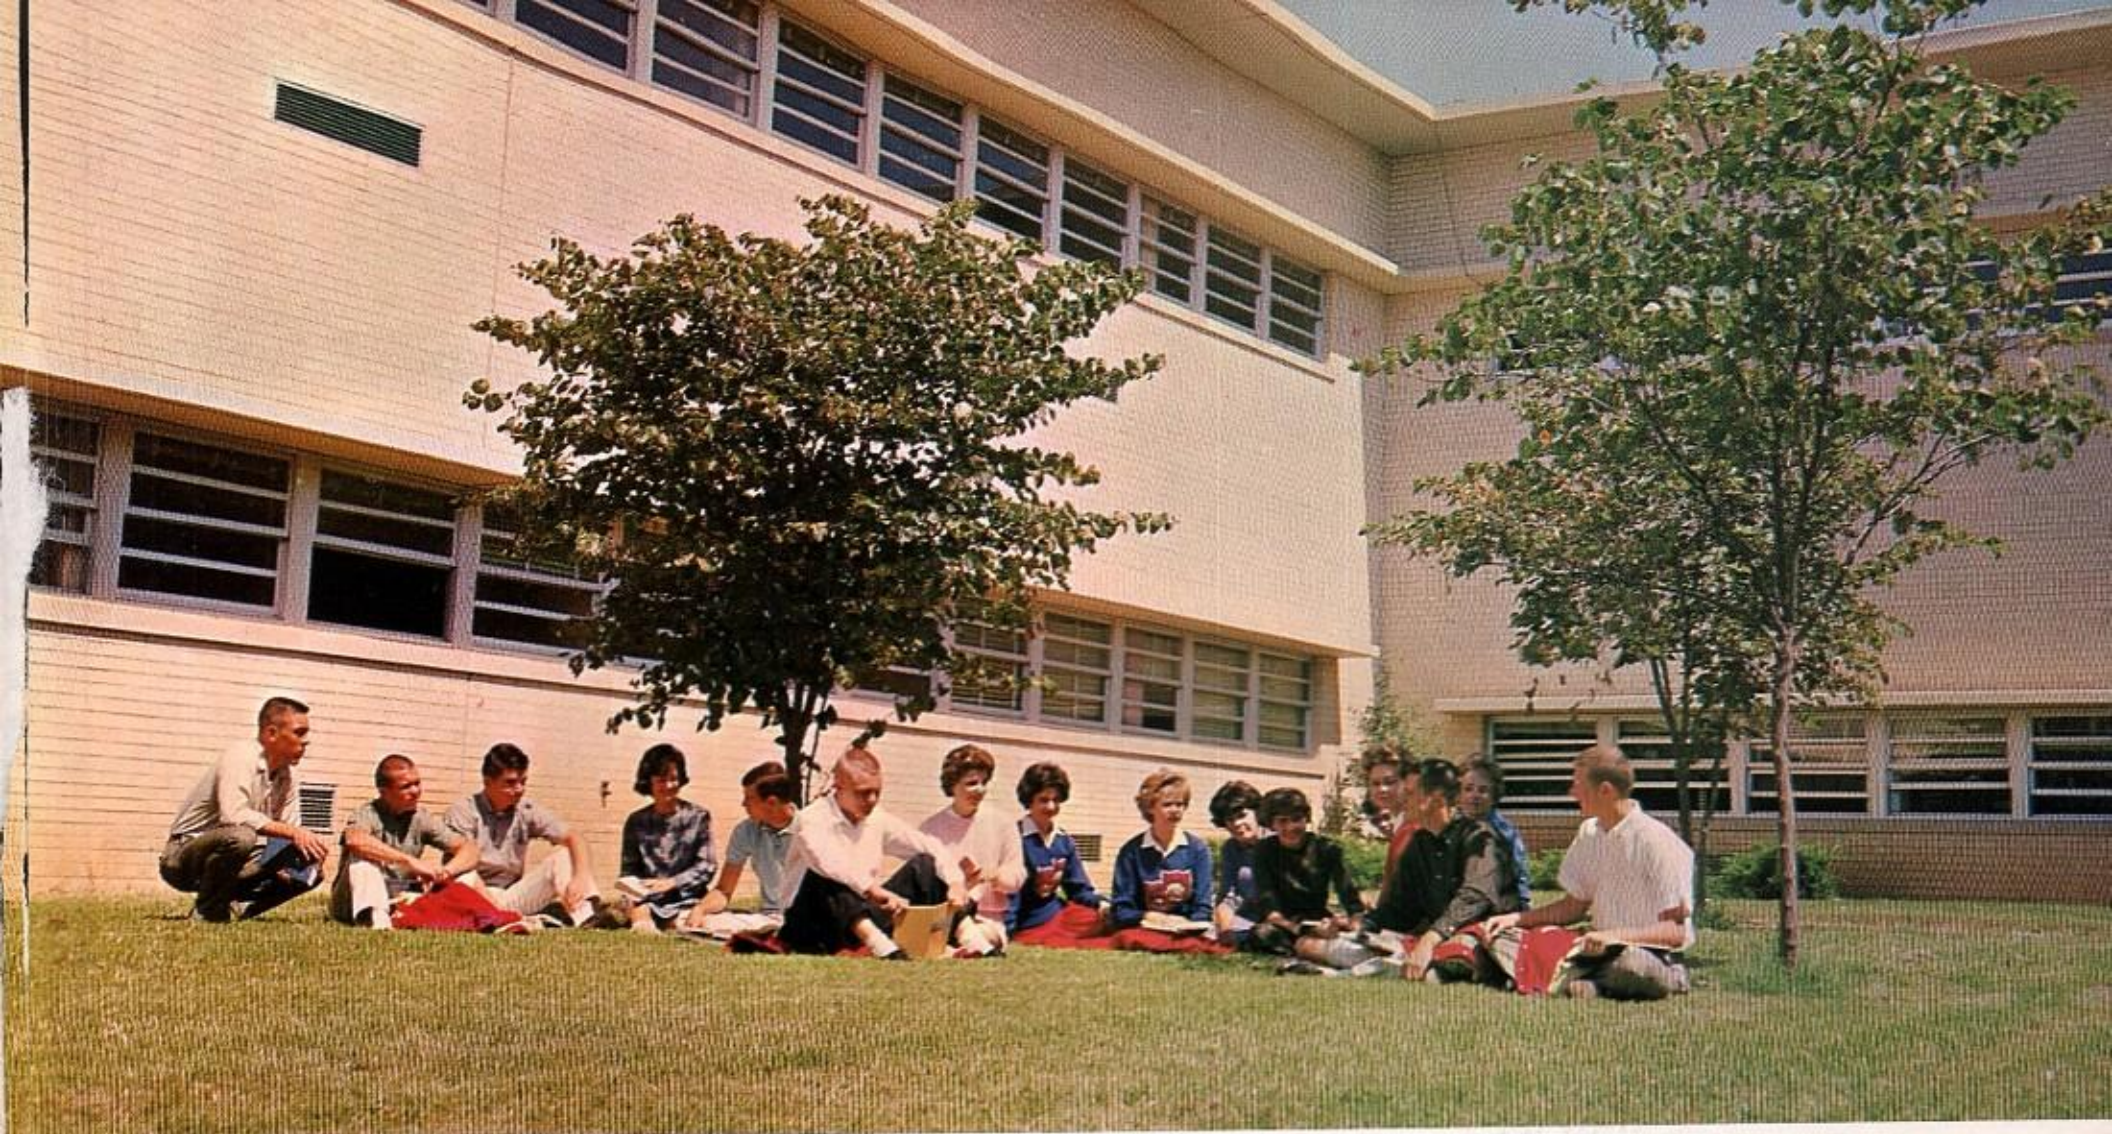

Students and faculty members make John Marshall's library a gathering place for those desiring aid in research, reference work or a novel for that much-needed book report. Eleven thousand volumes comprise the library, in addition to the books, many magazines and newspapers are made available to the students.

The reading area located on the west side of the library is a favorite place for those who have no pressing assignments and want to relax for a few minutes during the busy school day.

Marian Dierdorff, school librarian, and Jo Ann Pryse, assistant librarian, are constantly on the lookout for new books that will enlighten as well as entertain.

Today, when more and more emphasis is being placed upon the academic areas of school life, the library occupies an important position. It is here, amidst an atmosphere of study and books that research is done for prize-winning essays, Science Fair Projects, and other school events. The library provides the foundations necessary for students to achieve not only academic fulfillment, but also extra-curricular fulfillment. It is a storehouse of unlimited knowledge that is made available to students who seek it at John Marshall's library.

In the space age of today, John Marshall's students go forth into the world and continue to achieve. The school, the faculty and the subjects offered make the statement John Marshall High—a proud achievement—a living truth.

Students relax during those first days of school when summer is still here and winter seems faraway.

Campus Combines Recreation and Rehearsals

Darendia Lowther, a drama student who is an accomplished ballerina, has represented the school in many dramatic functions.

When Indian Summer comes to John Marshall for one last fling before autumn settles over the school, students relax at noon or after school in a green area on the west side of the school.

Each day at John Marshall brings to the students new challenges, new friends to make, new duties to perform. It is in this way that John Marshall's students are constantly achieving. We learn to smile at defeat and to take winning right in stride . . . this is real school spirit.

Students learned to contribute what they knew and could do for the clubs to which they belonged . . . achievement through contribution. Here at John Marshall, we learned that God was a part of each and everything attempted . . . achievement through worship.

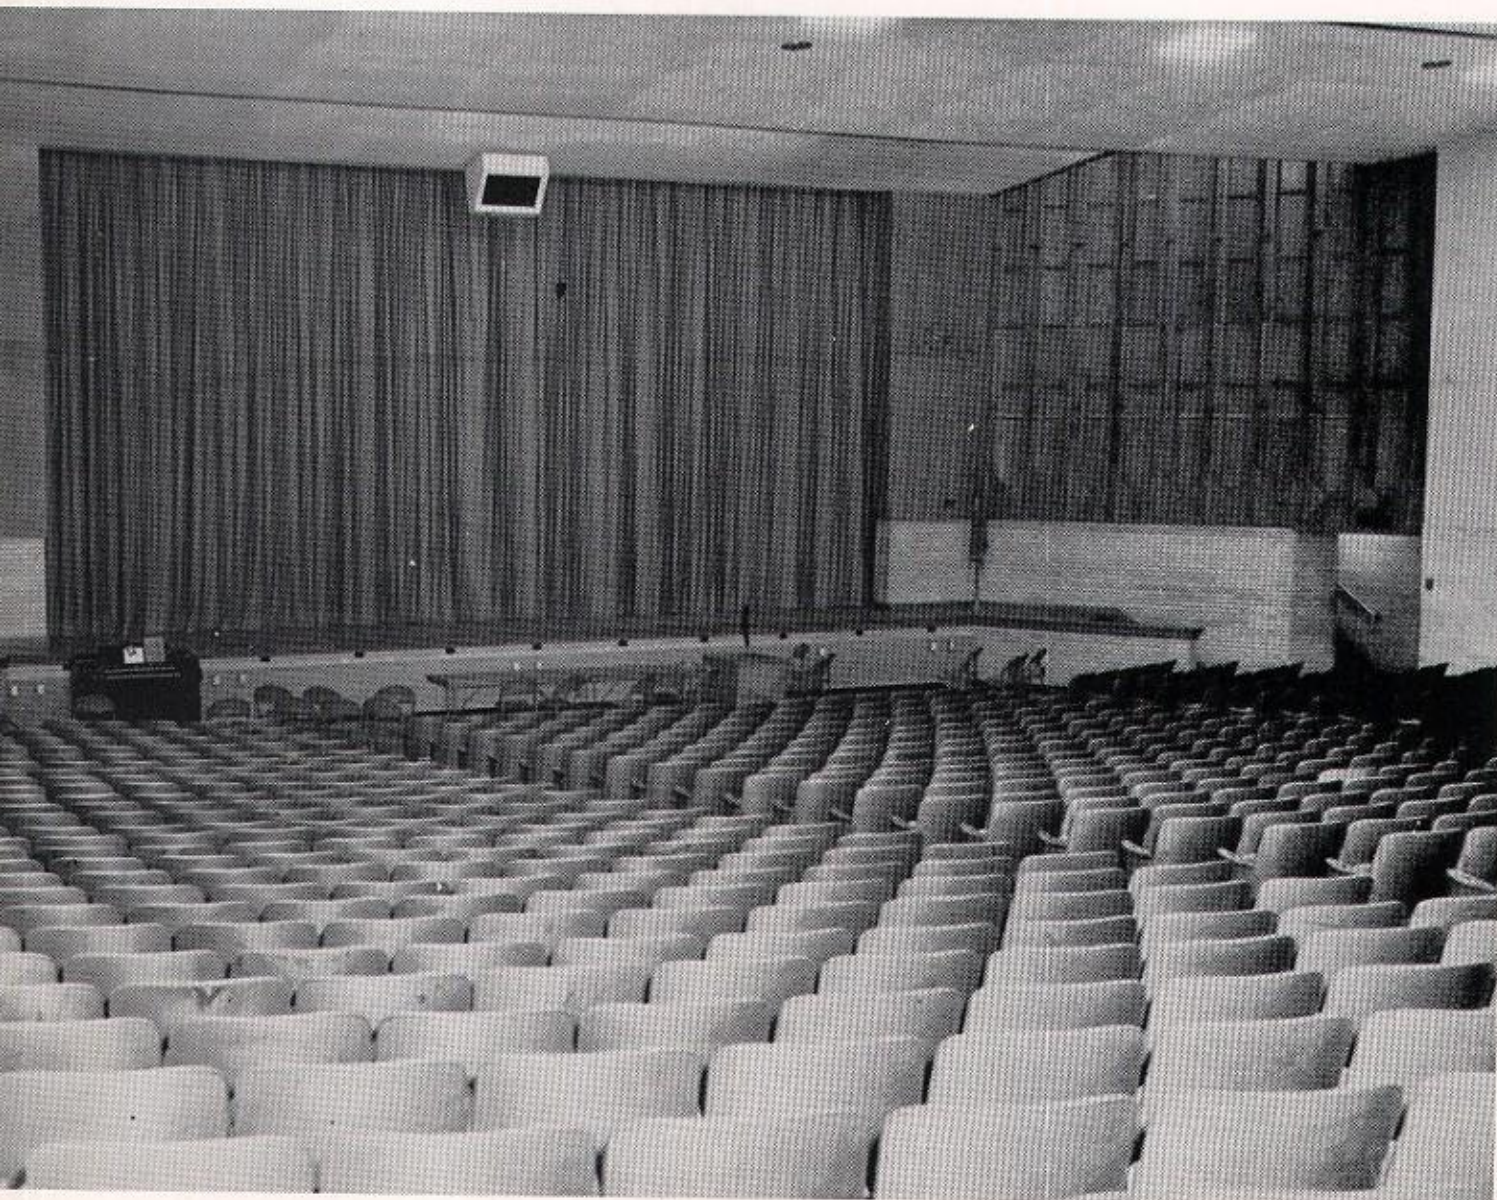

One of the departments of which the John Marshall students and administration are most proud, is the up to date language department. Here, the study of the French and Spanish languages is made interesting with the use of audio-visual materials in the modern language labs. The use of these is based on the theory that hearing the spoken words clearly through ear-phones, and repeating them, hearing the way his own voice sounds through the microphone, helps the student to comprehend the language better. The tape recordings are supplemented by color slides, and by songs and poems in the language being studied.

The first language laboratory was introduced at John Marshall three years ago, and because of its success, a new Spanish lab was installed this year for students taking languages.

Individual Interests Are Included In Scholastic and Social Surroundings

A school as large as John Marshall would not be complete without the aid of her notable auditorium. Throughout the year, traditional assemblies, school plays, style shows, concerts, conventions, contests, and speeches take place within these walls, where, also, hundreds of students attend television classes each day.

The John Marshall auditorium, completed in 1958, seats 966 people, all of which are proud to be seated in such attractive and accommodating surroundings.

The attractive carpeting found in the auditorium was the gift of the 1961 class.

Well equipped, John Marshall is considered outstanding in every field. This impression has been furthered by the fine student body representing the school. One of John Marshall's ambassadors of good will is our 75 piece band. The band has participated in many state contests and workshops. At the Tri-State Music Festival in Enid, the band helped the John Marshall music department win the coveted Sweepstakes trophy for the second consecutive year.

This fall our band was chosen to perform at the professional football game held each fall at Norman. Another First Place was added to the list of achievements when the band placed at the State Fair Contest.

A large investment of time and money has been placed in our band. The value of the instruments has been estimated at nearly 10,000 dollars and the uniforms have been valued at another 5,000 dollars. An equally important investment of time has been placed in practice by each member of the band.

Mr. Spurlock, the inspiration of the John Marshall band, is always willing to aid eager students.

Active Ambassadors Accentuate Representative Responsibilities

Diplomatic relations were furthered by the John Marshall delegates to the National Association of Student Councils Convention. Northwest Classen was the host school, and John Marshall was responsible for housing arrangements for the delegates who represented every state and four foreign countries. Our representatives, Bob Baird and Judy Hardegree, were active in the discussion groups and activities centered around the theme, "Challenge of Tomorrow."

Math students receive personal instruction from qualified faculty members.

Math Molds Minds Cheerleaders Create Crowds Twirlers Twist and Turn

With the present emphasis on math and science in the schools throughout the nation, John Marshall Junior-Senior High School does its share by offering algebra, geometry, the S.M.S.G. program and Math Analysis. Its science program includes physical science, biology, geology and physics. Well-equipped laboratories provide superior student stimulus. Interested students are urged to participate in summer workshops and Saturday classes at nearby colleges.

Twirlers add color and precision to marching band.

Sparkling the athletic teams to winning games and leading the pep club is the job of John Marshall's cheerleaders. Their colorful outfits and rousing yells add to the school's athletic events. Beginning in the spring and continuing throughout the summer, these girls give many hours toward building school spirit and enthusiasm.

A seventy-five piece band and mixed chorus serve those with musical skill. In addition to boosting school spirit at pep rallies and ball games, the band competes with distinction in contest work.

Teens Try Twist as Summer Simmers

Not all activities at John Marshall occur in the classroom. Extra-curricular meetings at the coke machines build an atmosphere of friendliness and sociability. The Howdy-Hop in September gives new John Marshall citizens an opportunity to meet their classmates on an informal basis. Steady couples remember with fondness that first dance they attended together at John Marshall or the coke shared between classes; the summer dances they attended and the ball games where they cheered the Bears.

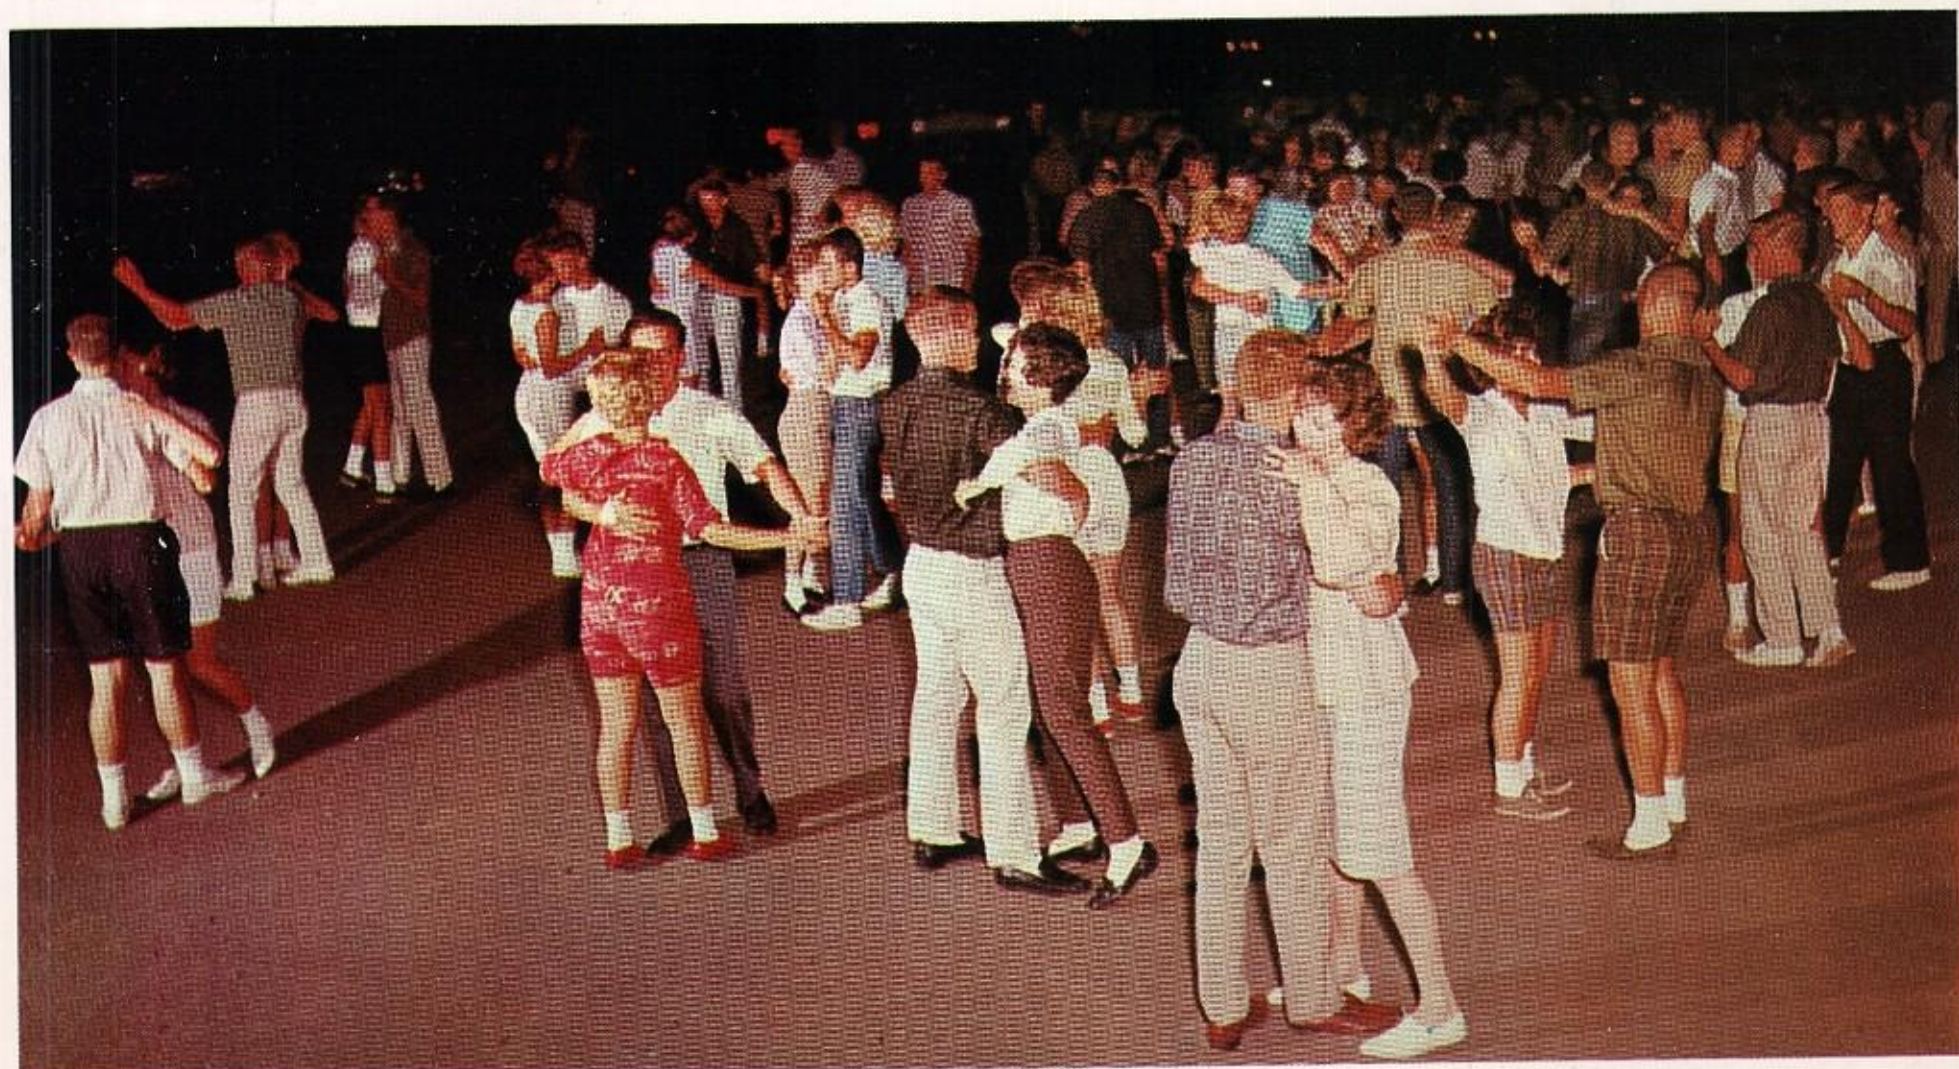

Things to do and people to do them with crowd the days at John Marshall. Whether underclassmen or senior, students worked together always moving forward toward achievement.

Here, we learned to make friends and be loyal to them. We learned to select our leaders wisely and to follow them. This year we loved, laughed, grew and moved forward toward achievement and recognition.

Fuel for the day is gathered at the soft drink and candy machines. A favorite place to see Who's Who at John Marshall.

Dancing in the dark is theme song for the summer dances held at the Village YMCA.

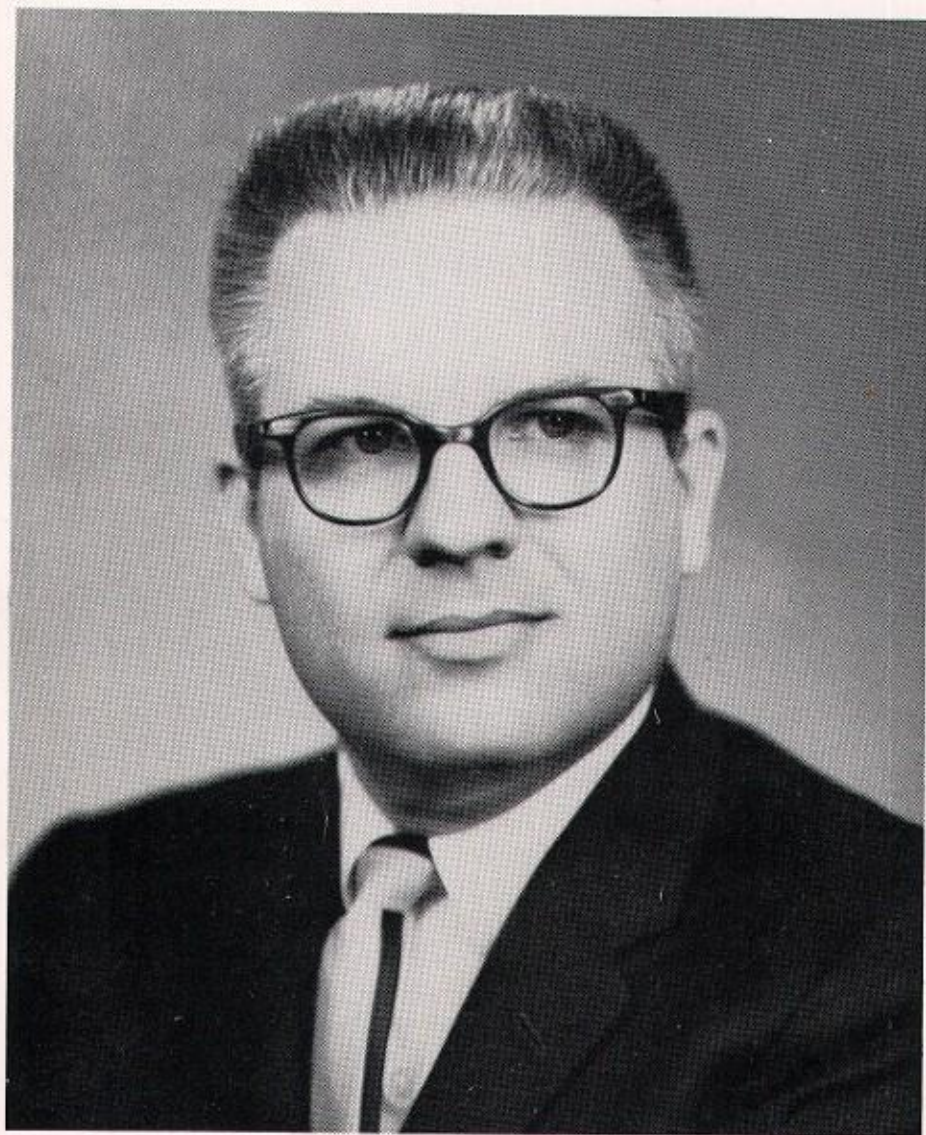

Students themselves participate in the government of John Marshall. The student council is composed of officers and members elected by the many classes and organizations in the school. The president of the student body is elected by the students in the spring. An outstanding feature of this student council is the fact that it is a working, contributing organization which helps the school to function more efficiently. In a truly democratic way the students of JM help make the policies of their school.

In the main lobby of the school are the trophy cases. Within these cases are the trophies won by various organizations in the school. These awards are symbols of the progress and excellence that is a part of the school. The spirit of John Marshall is the spirit of growth, of youth, of progress and it is a contagious thing which inspires loyalty in all who know it.

One of the most loyal is Mr. Robert Cheney, principal. This quiet, efficient, democratic leader who is always thinking through problems before anyone else knows the problems exist is the mainstay of the school. Mr. Cheney came to John Marshall from Classen High School. He has given fifteen years of service as an educator to the school system.

DR. JACK F. PARKER
Superintendent of Schools

Behind the scenes and supporting the schools of Oklahoma City at the Board of Education is Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Jack F. Parker. With the school year of 1961-62, Dr. Parker begins his first year as head of the Oklahoma City School System. He spends many hours working to see that Oklahoma City's schools meet the problems of an ever-expanding population, and ever-changing community, state and national needs. Working with the school board, Dr. Parker does key planning that keeps education in Oklahoma City abreast with the best in the United States.

In this school year of 1961-62, John Marshall citizens spend from five to six hours each day gaining the fundamentals of education, learning to live together and achieve as young American citizens.

In a day when many American schools are under fire from critics, the success of John Marshall High School elicits the statement—John Marshall—a proud achievement.

Board Elevates Education

The far-seeing, civic minded business men spend countless hours, weeks, and months making the Board of Education a machine working for Oklahoma City's youth. They tirelessly toil, providing the best possible educational facilities for the students and community alike. Each year, the administration is faced with demanding tasks—more teachers to accommodate the ever increasing population, better facilities to replace the dated, provisions for additional classrooms and buildings—and the ever-present demand for the best personnel and the funds necessary for its employment.

The Board's work does not terminate with the school year; it is a continuing job. Summer finds them planning programs for stepped-up education to fit the growing needs of today's young. Few people fully understand the dedicated work of this group—Their "payment" given in the future by the city's scholastic and moral attainment.

The administration building is the home of the city's schools. It houses the superintendent and his staff, the personnel office, the office of public relations and other vital officient in operating our great city system.

Administration

An Achievement in Understanding

EDWARD L. BERRY
Assistant Principal

Edward L. Berry has served John Marshall as assistant principal for the past two years. He is marking his fourth year at JM, having served previously as a counselor. Possessed of a fine singing voice, Mr. Berry is a member of the Faculty Quartet. He is a dedicated worker in church, civic and school circles.

JUNE KOOPMAN

June Koopman, secretary to Mr. Berry, is known for her cheerful personality. Her smile has brightened that long walk into the assistant principal's office for many students.

RALPH D. RISDON
Assistant Principal

Ralph D. Risdon is completing his first year as assistant principal. In his first year at John Marshall, he acted as the ninth and tenth grade counselor. Possessed of a fine sense of humor and an understanding of young people, Mr. Risdon has the respect and admiration of all those with whom he comes in contact.

Helen Allsbrook, secretary to Mr. Risdon, also serves as Attendance Secretary. Her sense of humor comes in handy as she listens to those "reasons" why students are late.

HELEN ALLSBROOK

Alton Marshall, Bill Leikam, Kathleen Osborn, George Chapman and Frances Peters, school counselors.

Kindness and Courage Characterize the Counselors

Increasing demands of modern life and, indeed, the country's need for better educated citizens have added new importance to guidance and counseling. John Marshall High School is striving to meet the needs of 2600 students, standardized tests, college and career planning, and personal problems. Counselors help plan schedules to enable graduates to attend college successfully, or enter the profession of their choice with confidence in success.

Rejuvenating your schedule was a popular senior pastime the first several weeks of school.

LAURA SANER

Administrative Office Staff Pleasant, Efficient and Helpful

"First door on your right as you enter the main area of the school." These words are a frequent introduction to the "control center" of John Marshall. The office and office staff hold a finger to the pulse of the school. Through these rooms pass communications, plans, and directions linking the administration to the faculty and students. Each member of the staff must be able to perform many duties from handling the switch-board to checking attendance.

The Stage Is Set for Activities

John Marshall's school year is filled with a bustling amount of fun and activity. Plays, school dances, dinners, teas, games, meetings, pep rallies, and assemblies head the never ending list of school functions.

With each new sports season, party, or play, comes one new headache to add to the enormous stockpile already accumulated by Mr. McCollum, J.M.'s new activity director and stagecraft instructor. Whenever an organization plans an event, it must be "Okayed" and scheduled on the school calendar before it can be planned in detail. "School Life" literally rests on the atlas shoulders of Mr. McCollum, yet he humbly sums up his activity directorship with "Whatever they don't know what to do with, they give to me."

Stagecraft, another facet of the directorship, is designed to give the creative and hard working students a chance to exercise their skills and at the same time aid all school departments in artful stage productions. All auditorium assemblies are manned by the able stagecraft crew and long hours of preparation are often in order.

In stage craft, Mike Pendergraft and Mike Hall begin the long hours of work required to build the beautiful sets for our plays.

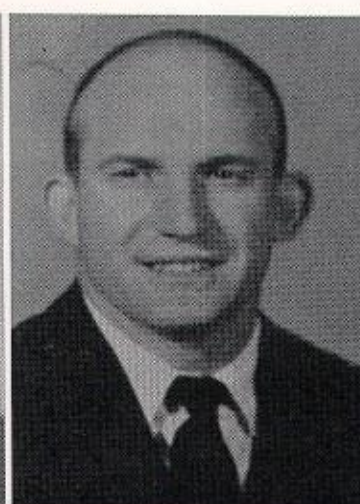

Mr. McCollum, activity director, is constantly harassed by club members like Bubba Simms of the Student Council and Linda King of the Pep Club to schedule their activities on choice days.

P.E. Provides Fitness From Fun

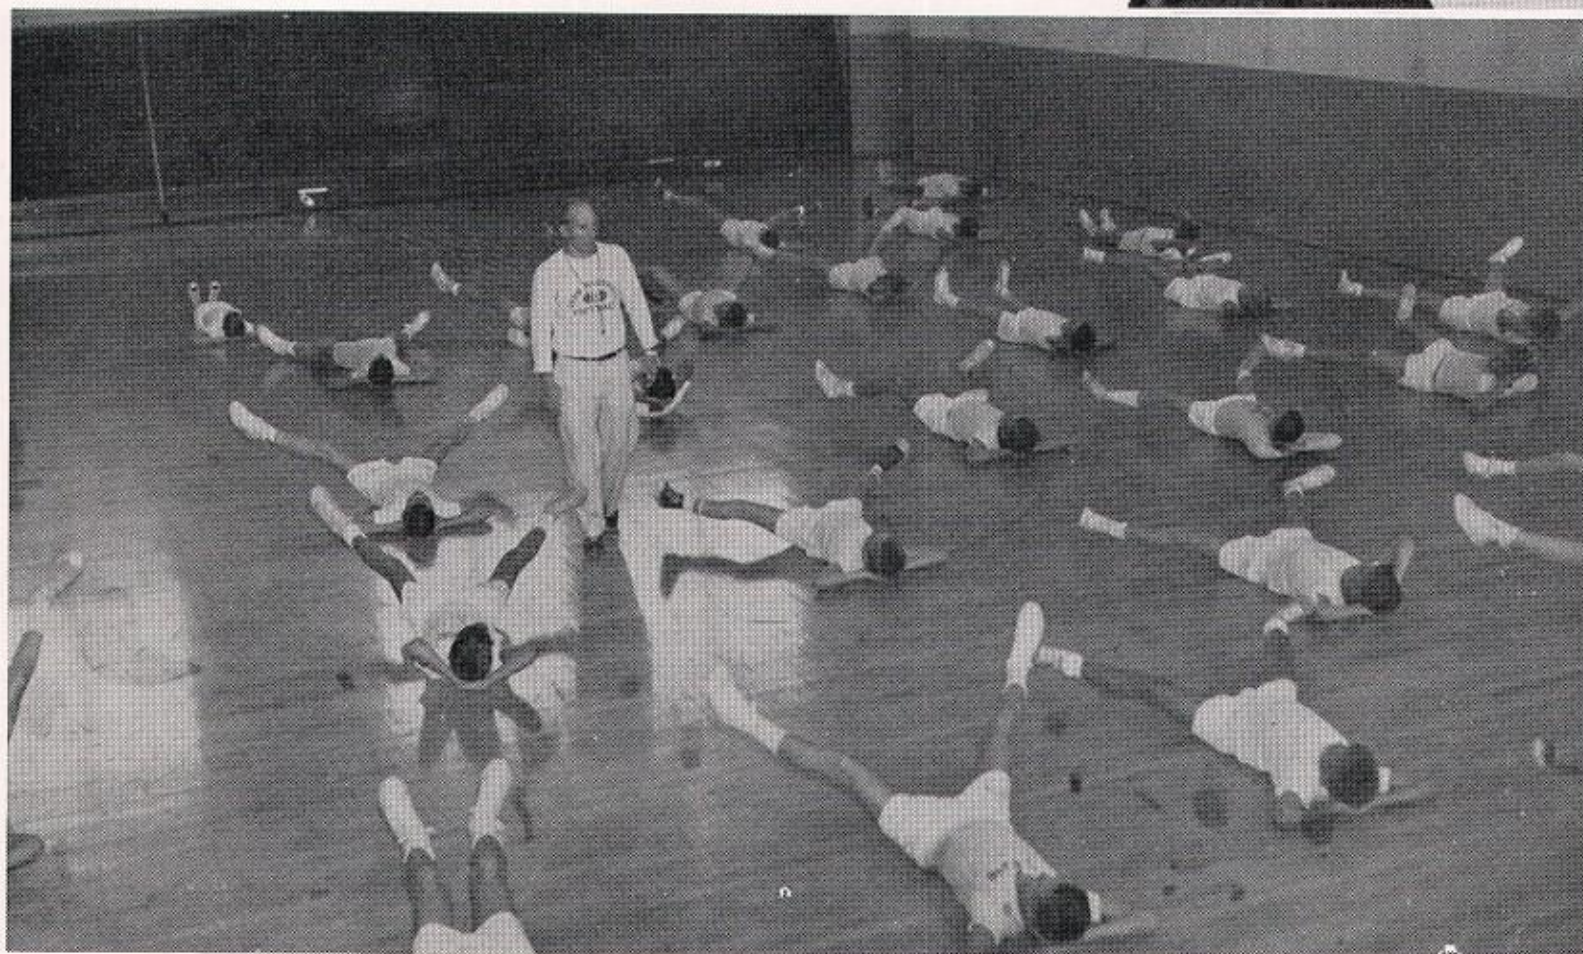

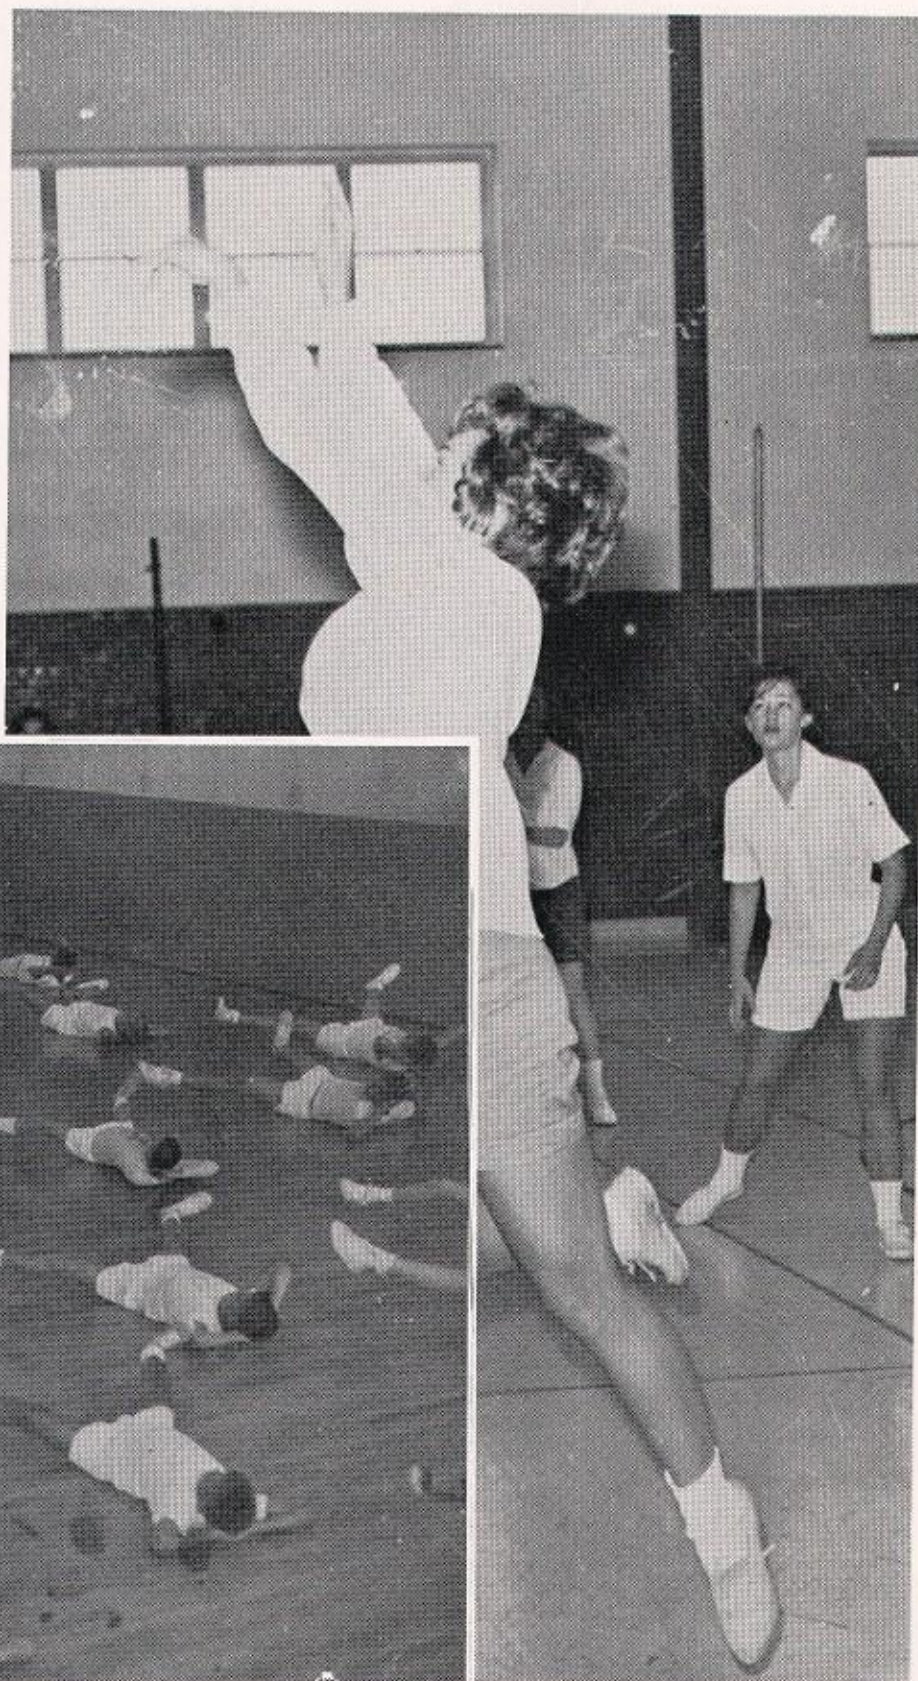

Because of the academic emphasis on life and work today, students find it difficult to make time for physical exercise. Physical Education, a mandatory subject for seventh graders as well as one high school year, offers the much needed break in daily academic pursuit through enjoyable, guided, sports and exercise.

This year J.M. experienced a record breaking "gym" enrollment with over 600 students enrolled in girls' gym.

Due to this fact the sounds of creaking bones, strained muscles, and just plain all American noise was greatly increased and the first days of gym were pandemonious.

In addition to the regularly offered gym classes are boys' individual and team sports and the girls' sports class. The physical education teachers also sponsor the girls' and boys' "O" clubs.

The situation was rectified, however, and physical education provided fitness from fun.

The coaches gather for a jam session before school one morning. Milliron—wrestling, cross-country, Lackey—golf and swimming, Mulcahy—tennis, Harrington—Jr. High football, track, Ratzlaff—basketball, Robinson—football, Miller—football, baseball.

Coaches Create A Will And A Way

Coach Milliron lends a hand to wrestler Vern Miller before a big match.

Patience, perseverance, intrepidity, and understanding plus a physical powerhouse and a kind heart characterizes John Marshall's coaches.

From the playing field to the locker room a transfiguration from guide to inspirationalist takes place in our coaches. Piloting our athletes to victory, although sometimes sportsmanly defeat, they continue believing, "It is not who wins, but why."

J.M. coaches are a rare breed yet unlikely to "fade-away." As long as there is a boy with a will, there will be a coach to create a way.

Social Studies Spreads Worlds at Our Feet

The purpose of the Social Studies department is to encourage an attitude of responsibility supporting our American heritage.

Using the past as a magnifying glass, the present clears and is better understood, the future brightens, and students are awed and at the same time spurred on by the magnitude of the questioning future. By looking back, students gain an appreciative understanding of their heritage and the courage to face the future abreast.

Studying the past and present gives one foresight. Oklahoma history, civics, world and American history, world and social problems and psychology supply the much needed fuel for this foresight.

Mr. Biller, one of the many new teachers, tells Joan Trapehagan and Ted Hough about one of our presidents.

Library Lends Learning

John Marshall's library shelves are filled with biographies, fiction, nonfiction, classics, American literature, foreign literature, etc. There are books and magazines for vocational references, term themes, and science projects.

Whenever a student seeks quiet and solitude he will always be assured of finding it in the school library. Soft music sets an atmosphere for thought and learning.

Without the considerate help of Miss Dierdorff, Mrs. Pryse, and the library aides, students would find the rows of books a baffling puzzlement. Other library aids are the IBM check out machines, card files, and the authors indexes.

Such festive mingling is a rare occurrence in the school library, where a quiet, studious mood is usually maintained.

English Constructs the Cornerstone of Learning

English truly does construct the cornerstone of learning. Without a clear understanding of all the communicative skills, one loses his vantage point and gropes in the darkness of ignorance.

J.M.'s English department endeavors to undermine this ignorance by masterminding English interest through understanding.

Fortunately English is inescapable. It is compulsory that each student take one English course per year, seventh through twelfth grades.

In English one develops the ability to think and communicate through study and practice, with time given to the study of language mechanics, including sentence construction, punctuation, spelling and vocabulary. One is also introduced to a great deal of literature thus receiving a sound knowledge of authors including O'Henry, Browning, Scott, Poe, Dickerson, Melton, Elliott, and Shakespeare.

The department offers additional courses which are designed to convince students that the skillful use of language is achieved through entertaining study. These courses are: Great Books, a supplementary course for advanced 12th graders, explores the great literature, their text as well as their reflection on modern times. The second course, Journalism, is taken along with the regular English course and aims to instill a special want and need for the correctly "written word."

When a senior leaves John Marshall, he has an English cornerstone, capable of supporting a wealth of knowledge.

The Cub staff presented their Prince and Princess of Print in the annual Homecoming parade.

Carol Powers, art editor, enriched the 1961-62 Cub with her clever cartoons and features.

Muriel Daniels, advisor to Quill and Scroll, and the Cub, also teaches psychology in addition to her journalism classes.

Paper Promotes Pride

John Marshall's school newspaper, The Cub, is a traditional publication boasted by every Marshallite. Its objective is to inform—to inform the student body and community of the school's pride, purpose, progress, and personalities. The Cub is efficiently staffed by resourceful scurtators who scan the school's multifaceted life, successfully reporting the "new" that will afford the majority of readers.

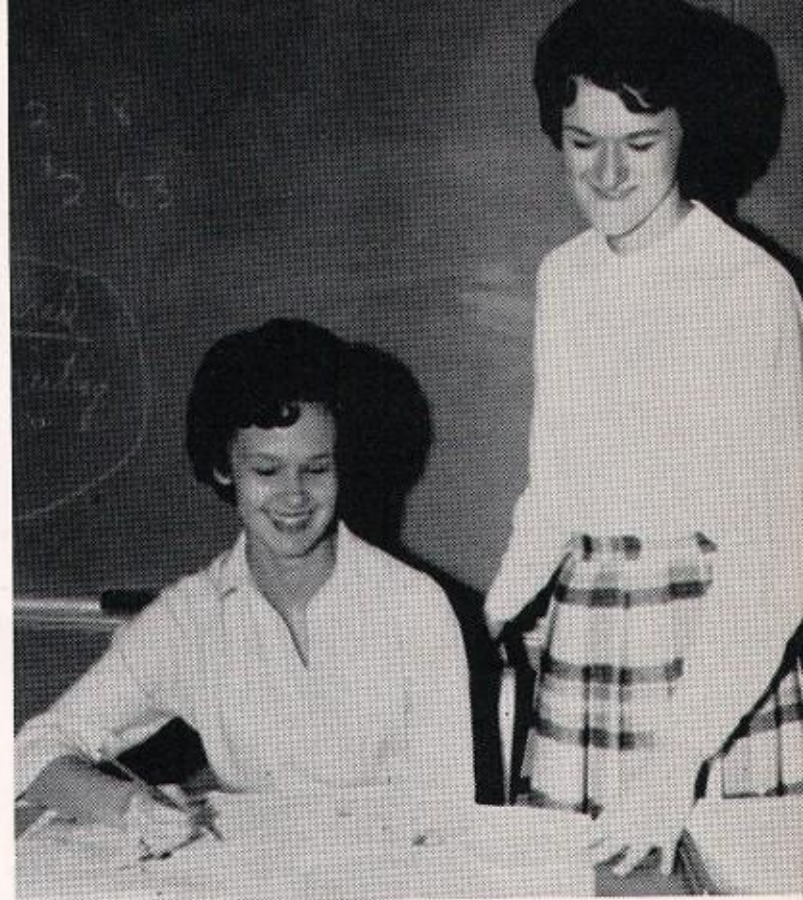

Each year new members are added to the staff consisting of first year Journalism students who have served as "Cub" reporters the previous year. This year the Cub also received a new sponsor, Mrs. Muriel Daniels, who has invoked new ideas, many of which have become functional practices. Mrs. Daniel's guidance laced with the alternating editor's, Beverly Mainous and Linda Johnson's exacting efforts molding the capable industriousness of the apt staff have constructed a prize winning paper.

John Marshall is proud of The Cub; but especially proud of its staff which have made the '61-'62 editions of the Cub things to read, reread, and remember.

Reporters form the backbone of any paper. Marilyn Cullum, Nannoe Ledgerwood.

Carol Akin, Business Mgr., and Ginny Shields, Ad Mgr.

Editors, Beverly Mainous and Linda Johnson.

The Cub not only notes academic and social events, but fun and fancy by featuring such articles as Mr. or Miss Fashion to an article explaining in detail "How Not to Perform a Security Drill," as edited by feature editors Diane Dillard and Judy Levy.

Sports editors, E. J. Morgan and Mike McAdams, have kept Cub readers sportfully informed and colorfully reviewed.

Late Hours, Hard Work, Busy Days, Many Pictures Are Ingredients of Life on Yearbook Staff

This year's Bear Tracks marks the addition of some new ingredients to the book. Color was given a prominent position and the junior high was given added coverage through the aid of a junior high editor. A sixteen page section was devoted to academics and organizations were photographed in group pictures.

Combining summer meetings and some hours after school, the new 1962 Bear Tracks was compiled by staffers who wished to give to the students a pictorial history of the 1961-62 school year. This book is their practice in achievement.

Classes editors, Carol Powers, Bonnie Robinson, Carol Akin and Sandra Weaver contemplate naming correctly each student at John Marshall.

Janel Whitt, faculty editor, is a second year member of the staff. Here, she and Billie Gail Smith decide on a different arrangement of pictures for the faculty section.

Faced with the task of indexing the largest enrollment in JM's history are Jane Higgenbotham, Johnel Ferguson, Sandra Weaver and Jim Lindberg. All are first year staffers.

Much of the copy writing and layout work is done by Carol McClaren, Gwen Casey, Darendia Lowther, Vicki Heitman, Karen Olsen, Dionna Farrell, and Phyllis Glidewell.

Students Prepare for Future

The departments of foreign language and business education try to introduce skills as tools for future success.

In business ed. students are taught not only the practical use of typing, shorthand, and business machines, but the personal touch which can be given to one's work and is valued by one's employer. Industrious students have won many prize positions and scholarships accredited to the fine instruction they receive in the J.M. business department.

Knowing that foreign languages are a vital necessity in today's world, the foreign language dept. not only bases its teaching on the grammar translation, but the culture ideals, literature, and the people as a whole. Students are encouraged to keep abreast of world situations affecting the people speaking their language and are often required to make special reports. Third and fourth year students take a course combining grammar and the country's literature. Languages offered at J.M. are French, Latin, and Spanish.

The newly installed language labs proved to be another great stride in learning this year.

Enjoyment Enhances Education

John Marshall's Fine Arts Department is the pride of the school. Each division: Senior High Choir, headed by Mr. Joe Figg, Junior High Choir, and Glee Club under the direction of Al Homberg, the bands under the leadership of Mr. Joe Spurlock, orchestra taught by Mr. Westman, speech, and debate coached by Mrs. June Shaw and H. Oliver Roberts, and art under Miss Zelma Oliver, place ribbons, trophies, plaques, and merit certificates in the school trophy case through their exceptional performances.

The art assembly, plays, debates, musicals, concerts not only lead to much enjoyment, but an enjoyable source of learning for the entire student body. The flying of our school flag, a newly inaugurated happening based on achievements and victories, becomes a frequent happening due to the wonderful work of our fine arts department.

Scientists Seek Solutions

With the use of modern teaching devices, coordinated with well equipped laboratories and dedicated teachers, the John Marshall Science Department, under the direction of Mart Woods, is provoking students to question "why?" and in so doing produces students who are winning awards and recognition in the fields of science.

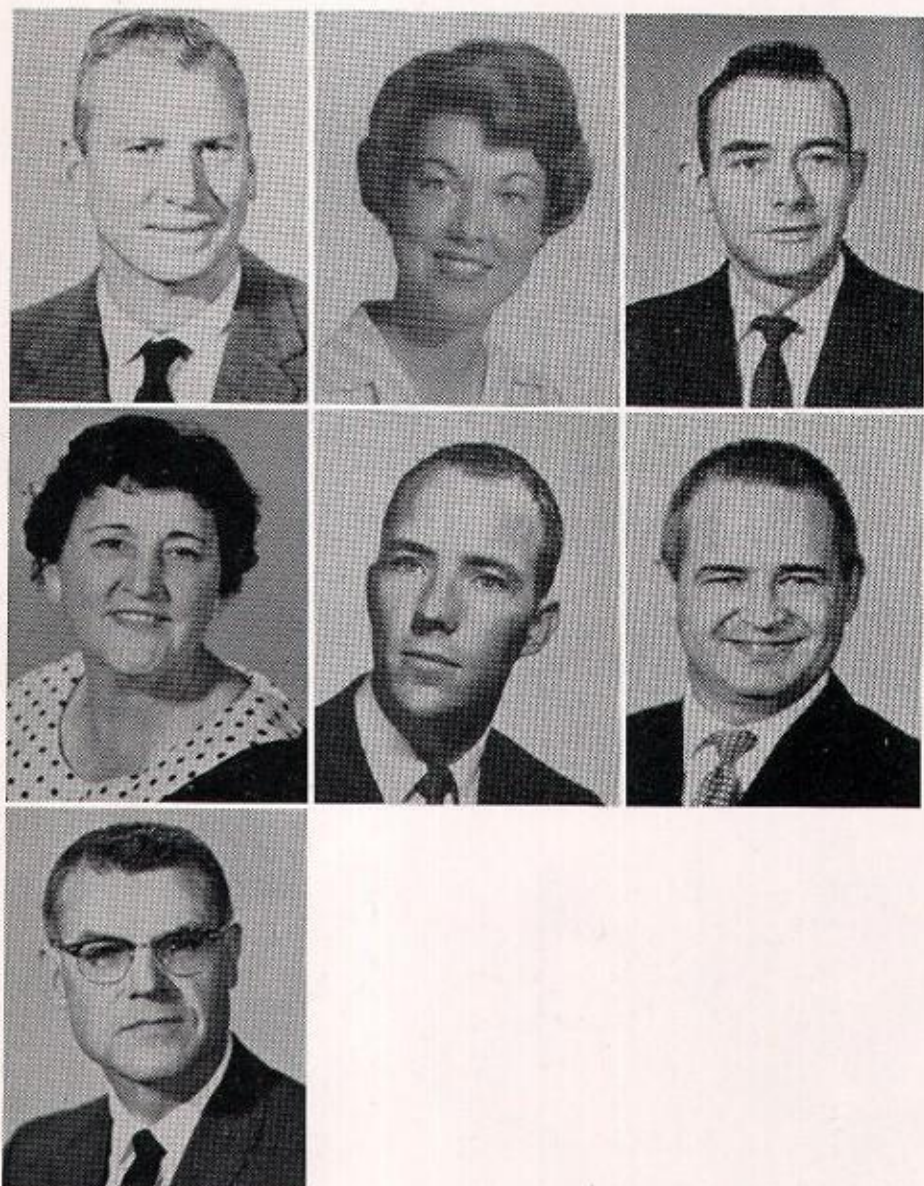

From a student's first contact with science, usually the eighth grade, he begins to develop a primary understanding. In biology, he develops an understanding of living organisms. Next the universal laws and principles that govern the inanimate world are explored in chemistry. Then physics, the study of the composition and properties of substances and the changes they undergo, is taken and the student can further and widen his scientific scope.

Although the basic goal of the science department is to develop an understanding of science and to promote ability in logic and reasoning, it is not the sole goal. Look around you—through new discoveries, new inventions, and new developments that make life easier and safer, science has a continuing effect on everyone's life.

Math Provokes Progress

Each year the field of Math becomes more and more prominent on the scientific and technical frontiers. Many John Marshall students realize the importance of Math and respond to the varied courses offered by the math department. These courses are junior high arithmetic, applied math, algebra, plane and solid geometry, trigonometry, and math analysis.

Students enrolled in math are armed with slide rules, compasses, protractors, rulers, and of course, erasers enabling them to pursue the endless pages of problems.

The department, headed by Martha Woodson, believes that the mechanical processes of problem solution is of second importance; the first being to make the students THINK!

Mrs. Martha Woodson is shown teaching the basic foundations for higher math.

Industrial Arts and Homemaking Harmonize

The closely related fields of Industrial Arts and Homemaking are synonymous to a creative and productive future.

Home Economics strives to teach future homemakers to choose, prepare, and serve food; to select and make clothing; to plan and furnish an attractive home; to care for and train children; and to attain a happy family relationship. In short, the courses offered by our Homemaking department; sewing, cooking, childcare, home nursing, interior decorating, and family relations, hope to insure the health and happiness of the present and the future generations.

Industrial Arts is much like Home Economics in that it teaches and perfects the students' skills in productive and creative fields. John Marshall offers industrial courses designed not only to provide the student with a vocational skill, but a worthwhile hobby. These courses are photography, drafting, woodwork, metal work, and the newly added electronics course.

Polish Is Produced

John Marshall would not be the clean, safe, and outstanding place it is without two very important departments and a group of men who move about inconspicuously wielding the dust cloth, stoking the fires, and doing all those things that go unnoticed by most of the students. When "Will Mr. McDonald please come to the office," rings over the P.A. system, students subconsciously register a sign of thank you, gang—our custodians are grand.

Both Industrial and Drivers Education develops future leaders in the field of marketing and distribution by means of classroom lessons and training experiences in the local businesses. Driver's Ed. instructs students in the basic mechanical maintenance of a car and all over safe driving, making better informed, more responsible drivers—aids to the school and community.

Kitchen Craft, Clinic Cunning; Keeps Bears Bright

Mrs. Hammer and her bee like staff prepare five different and well balanced meals for over 2000 students every week. Bears are literally given "food for thought" by a staff of which we are proud.

Another worker toward the Bears' health is Mrs. L. Douglas, school nurse and health teacher, who has a twofold job. In the classroom, she teaches prevention of illness rather than the cure. In the clinic she eyes ailing Bears as well as those who come A.W.O.L.; a job requiring expert eyes and a sympathetic heart.

Junior High Council Plans Busy Year

Bubba Symes, president, and Randy Sengal discuss council plans with Judy Johnson, parliamentarian, Susie Sampson, secretary and Nelda McFeaters, vice-president.

John Marshall's junior high student council had a busy year beginning with hops and the Christmas Dance.

This year JM was the host school for the convention of city junior high councils. Each homeroom has a representative and an alternate to attend the weekly meetings.

This spring the council plans a picnic at Springlake to end the year's activities.

"Frying Pan" Flavors

Jack Bedford and Darendia Lowther supplied portions of romance to the audience.

Bonnie Robinson looks helplessly at Jack and Bill as they rehearse a "murder."

Almost the entire cast on stage for final moments.

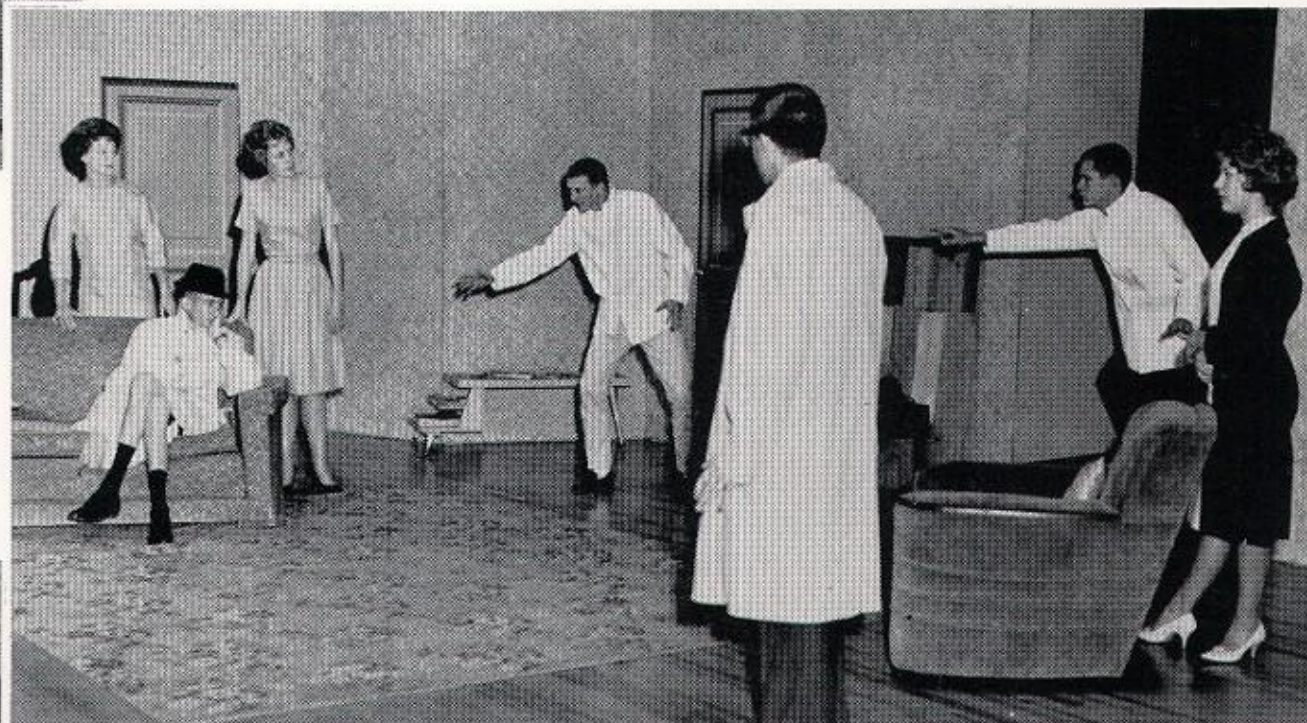

Romance, again, with Dennis Berry and Johnel Ferguson.

Bears' Dramatic Season

Jo Ann Wylie, drama director, relaxes with a copy of Stanislawski, the "method manual."

Marilyn McLain couldn't care less about the problem Mary Appell has.

Jack Bedford and Dennis Berry "stop the show" when they rescue the "bare legged lunatic."

John Marshall's speech department enjoyed a successful year. The annual fall production was seen by more students than in previous years. Out of the Frying Pan, a three act comedy, entertained at matinee and evening performances.

Under the able direction of H. Oliver Roberts, the speech department hit the "Tournament Trail" in October and in January a second place was won in the Capitol Conference Speech Tournament Sweepstakes.

John Marshall Bears

JM's first team poses at Taft Stadium scene of all Bear's home games.

This was a team that had its own personality, a personality of good sportsmanship, ability and heart. These men who comprised the John Marshall grid representatives cared more about playing the game as it was meant to be played than about winning. With this philosophy, the team finished their gridiron wars with a 6-4 record, their best season in several years. This record enabled JM to finish in the first division behind Harding, Northeast and Southeast. The Bears lost to these three teams that tied for first place in the Capitol Conference. Much of the credit for the fine 1960 showing goes to the coaching staff comprised of Vince Robison, head coach, Virgil Milliron, line coach, and George Miller, B-Team coach.

"One of the best also ran teams in the state" were the words used to describe the 1960 edition of the Bears by the Daily Oklahoman. After smashing U. S. Grant, Central, Star-Spencer and Northwest Classen on successive weekends, John Marshall was ranked tenth in the state. Harding spoiled JM's winning streak and Edmond eked out a 14-0 victory in a game marked by strong defensive play. Classen's Comets and Putnam City's Pirates bowed to JM to close the season on a winning note.

Capitol Conference Is Rough, Tough for JM Bears

Experiencing several heartbreaking losses, the Bears fought for and made their own breaks in the tough Capitol Conference.

Eddie Herron outruns Irish defenders for two points.

Up for grabs in the McGuinness game.

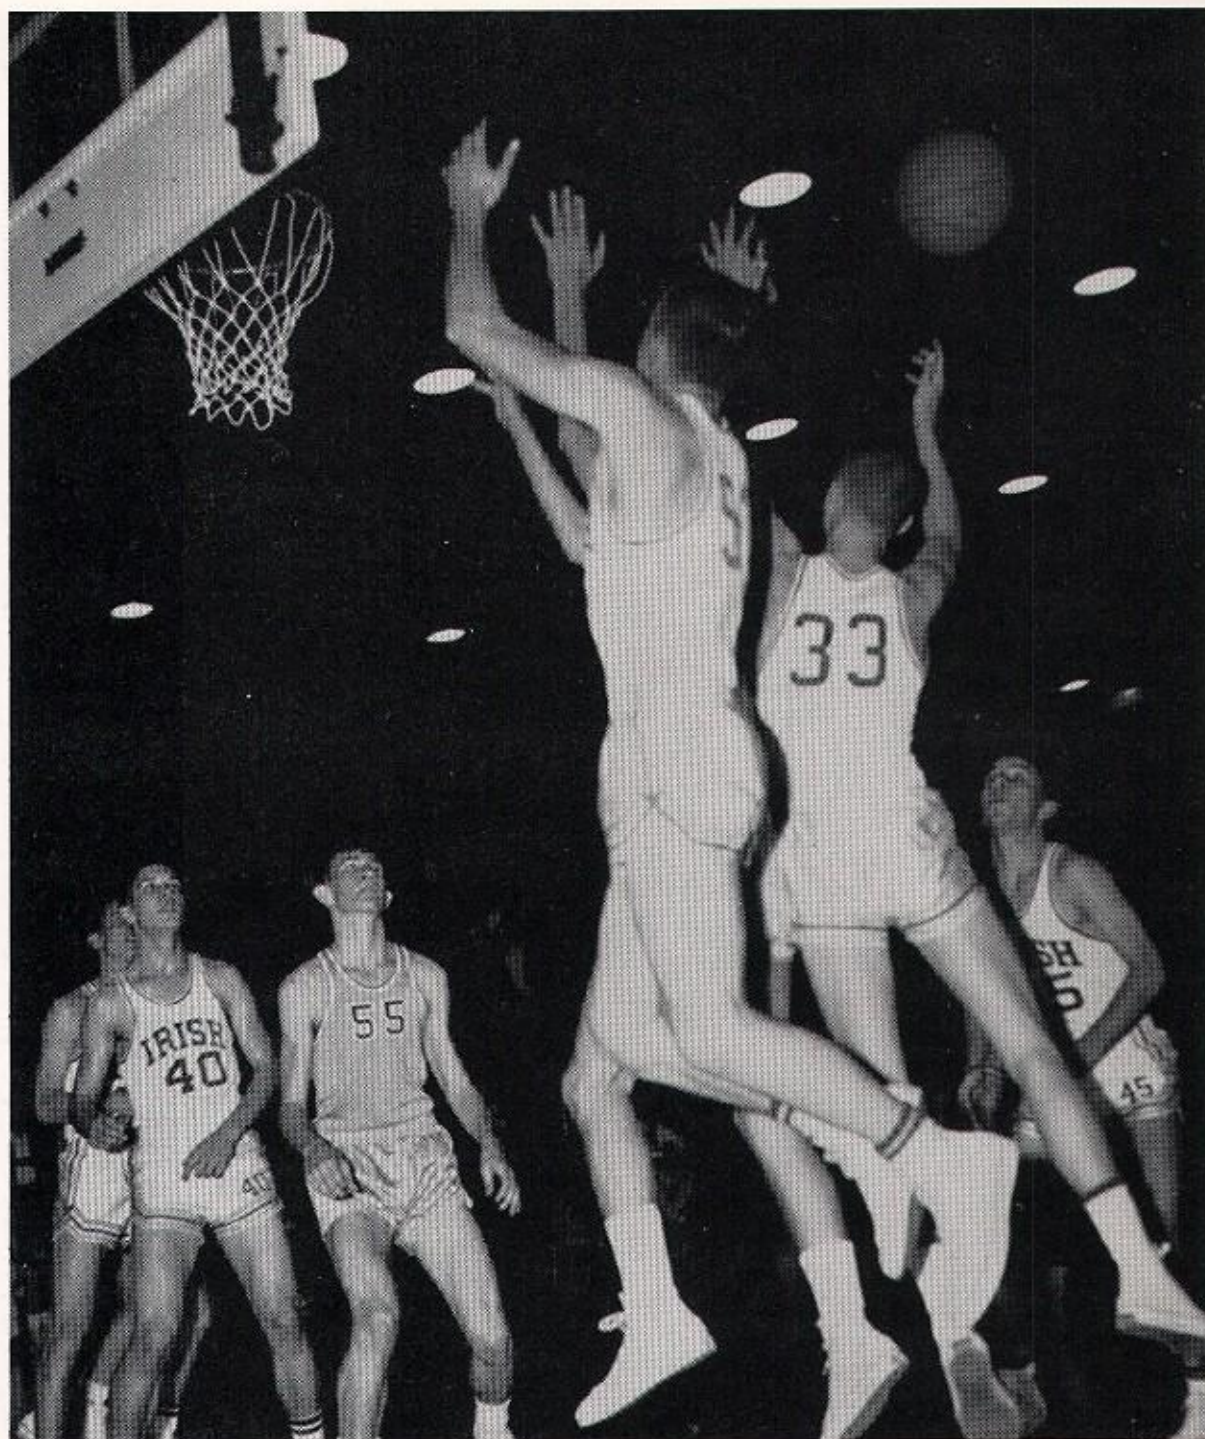

Bears Take Third at JM Invitational

For the second year, John Marshall sponsored an Invitational Basketball Tournament. This year the Bears won third place beating Harding. The squad made use of Kenny Potts, a transfer from Lawton, in the forward position. Ken added more push and drive to the team with his all around team play and hustle.

In a mid-season thriller, JM gave Star-Spencer, a capitol conference contenders, a real scare, pulling to within eight points of them as the game ended. Harding was beaten by the Bears twice in succession.

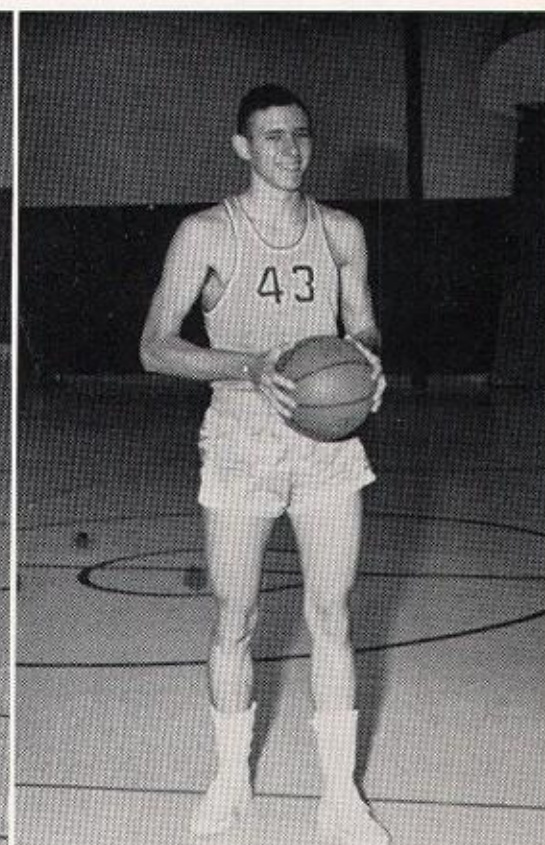

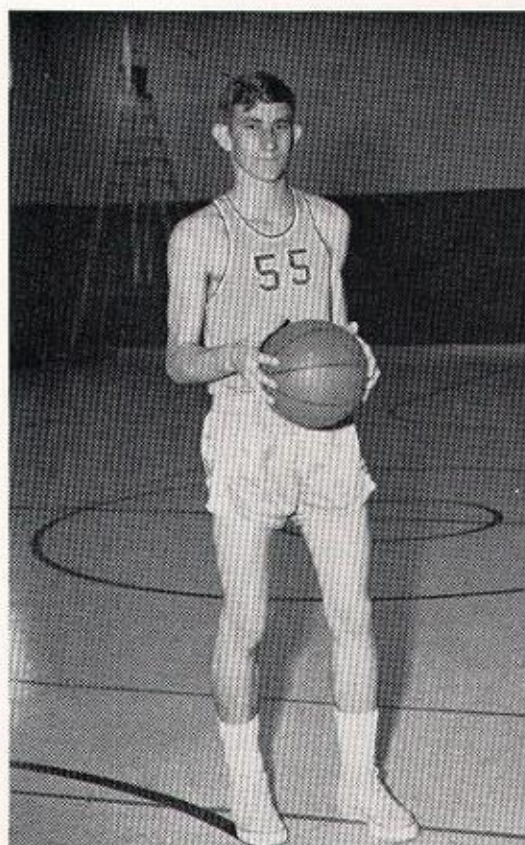

Even though a winning season in basketball was not experienced by JM, the boys are aware of the fact that in addition to competition, sports are builders of men and character. In losing, the Bears displayed good sportsmanship and an awareness of the game as one to be played in the spirit of fair play.

"We are the Cubettes, Cubettes are we,
We're here to give some pepability . . ."

These words that ring out at pep assemblies and athletic contests express the purpose of the Cubette Pep Club. The girls are on hand to back our teams with enthusiasm and spirit dressed in the traditional red and royal blue uniforms.

Always in the limelight, the Cubettes sponsor several main events of the school year. The first was the "pledge" banquet, held at Val Genes Cafeteria. New members were initiated at this time.

Crowning the Pep Club Beau, the highpoint of the year, takes place at an annual event. The Beau is selected from five candidates all of whom must be a participant in a sport.

Spring events include the All Sports Banquet honoring all boys who have lettered and the Style Show, sponsored by a local clothing store with selected members of the club modeling the latest fashions.

Mrs. Rotzinger, girls' sports coach, discusses coming games and activities with the girls' sports class.

Girls' Sports Program Interests Female Athletes

John Marshall's girls sports program is one of the most active in the school. Girls participate in basketball, volleyball, and softball. The girls' swimming team begins second semester and goes on into the spring. Many of the girls are members of Girl's O Club.

During the spring semester, the girls play tennis and softball receives active participation.

Grapplers Win Second in State Tourney

John Marshall's matmen marked 1962 as their biggest year when they sent ten men into the state tournament at Norman, Oklahoma. The case in the lobby is aglow with the trophies won by the team.

Under the tutelage of coach Virgil Milliron, JM's grapplers won the Geary Tournament, upsetting Edmond, last year's state champions and swept the city honors by taking the All-City Tournament and Capitol Conference Tournament.

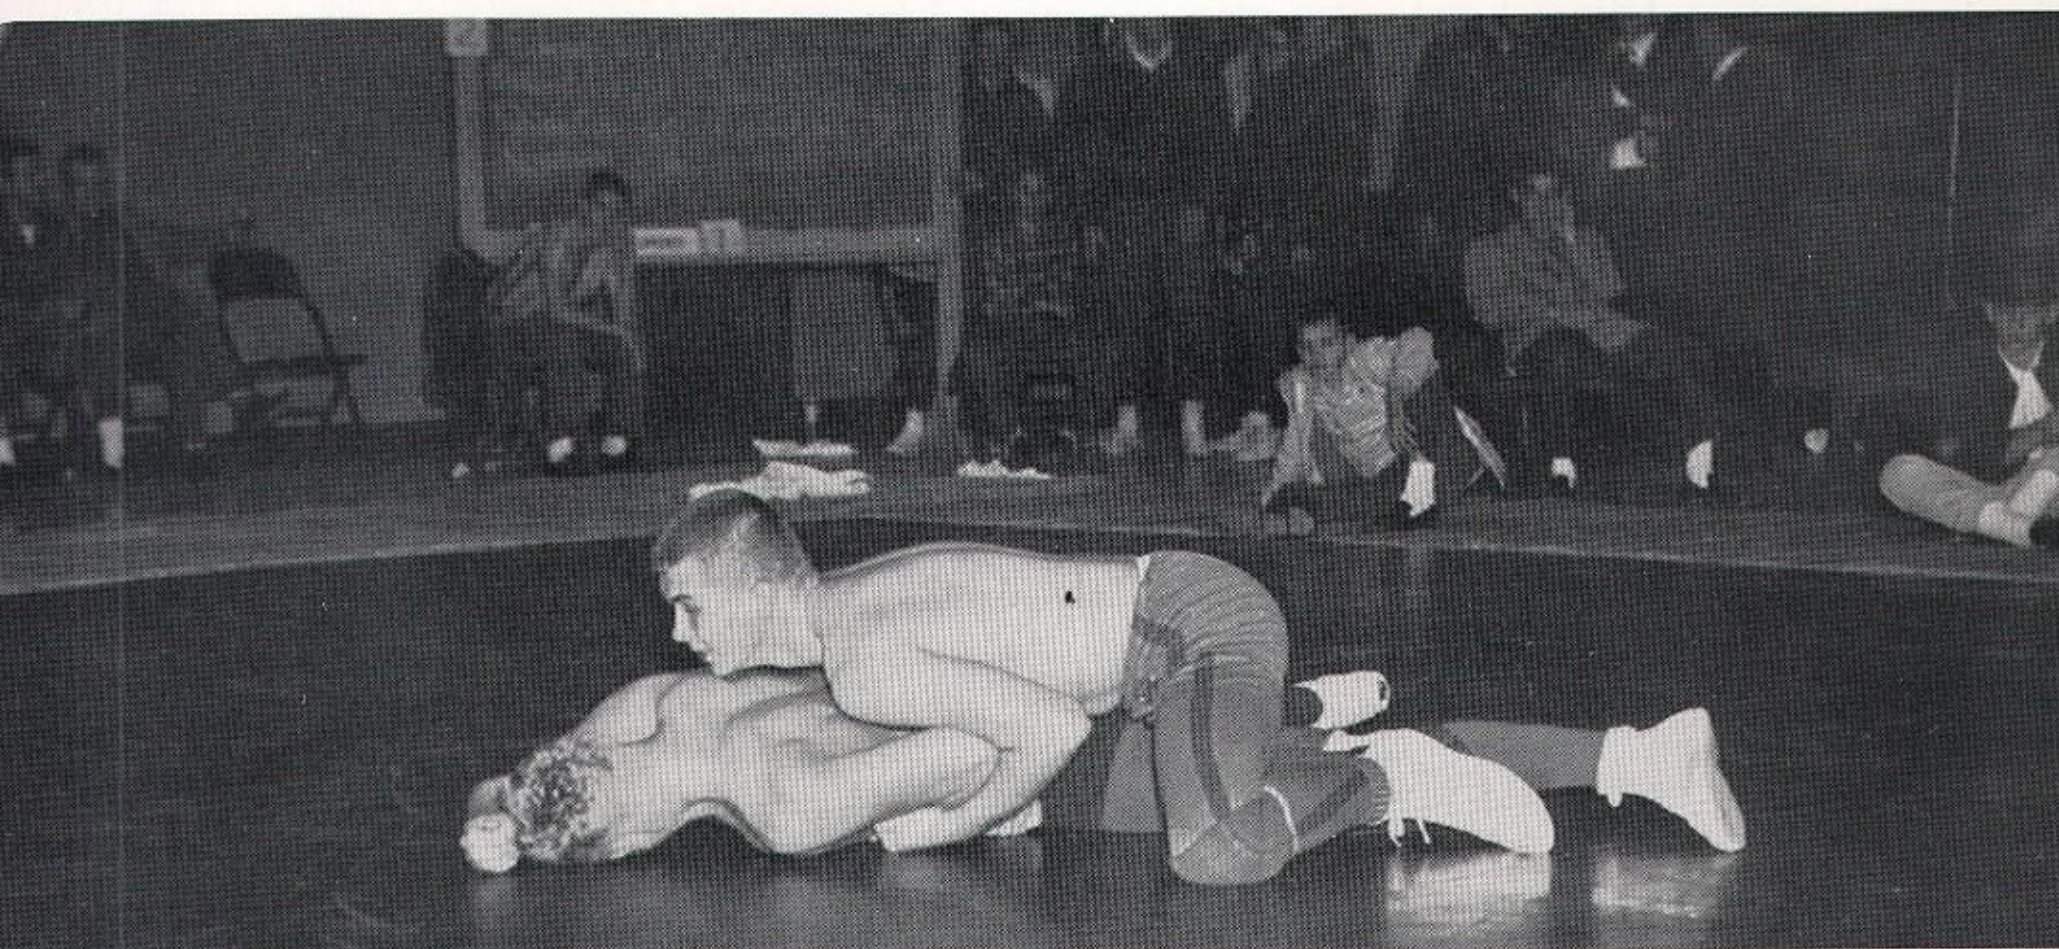

On February 23, the Bears challenged Edmond for the state mat title, by evening JM supporters saw their hopes crushed as Edmond, capitalizing on surprise defeats of John Marshall 1961 state champs, Mike McAdams and Joe Wilkerson, scored a 76-66 victory. John Marshall's lone title came from Tony Howard at 183 on a 3-1 decision over Tom Simon of Grant.

1961-62 was undoubtedly one of the finest years the Bears have experienced. The following are the ten men JM sent to the state tournament: Wilkerson, Potts, McAdams, Haxel, Russ McAdams, Wells, Miller, Griffith, McGaughey, and Howard.

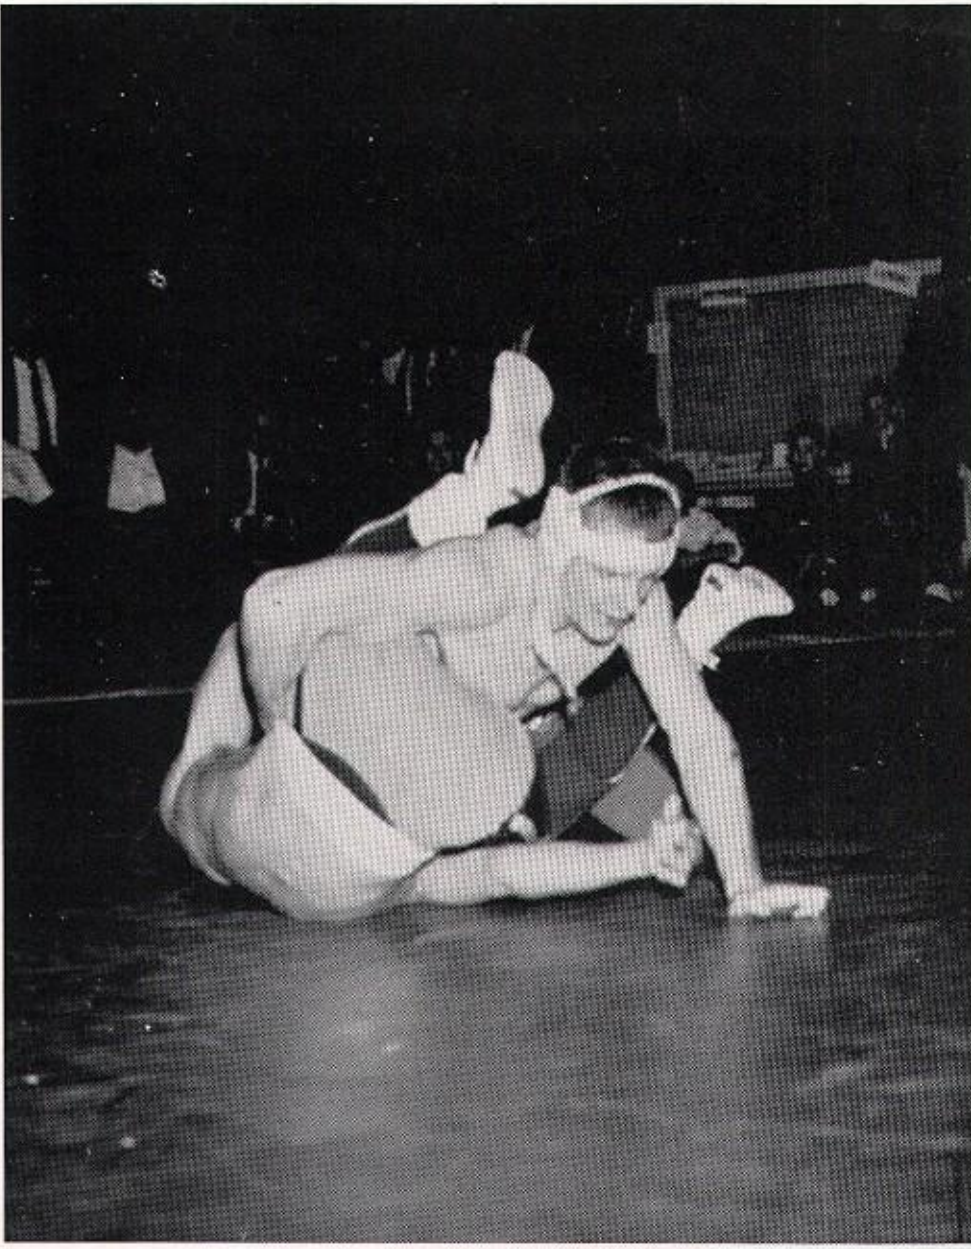

Dave Griffith seems to be saying "Let's dance," to his opponent during the Midwest City tourney.

Finishing the season with a "respectable" 4-4 record, the JM junior high Bears fought their way through an eight opponent schedule. Losing their first game to Harding, they climaxed their season with a win over McGuiness. In the last two games, the jv squad snapped a losing streak after a heartbreaking loss to Star-Spencer at Homecoming by defeating Northwest Classen.

Phil Conley led the team in scoring with some fine runs. Don Howard, a first rate center, helped anchor the line. David Bradley and Don Criner played fine defensive ball.

Junior High Wrestling Shows Promise for Coming Season

John Marshall's junior high was well represented in the area of sports during 1961-62. The football squad ended the season with a better than average record as did the basketball squad.

Members of the junior high sports teams are to be commended for their participation. Varsity coaches are aware that from these sports minded young men will come the future championship John Marshall squads. Special mention should go to Lucky Jabaro, Wes Melton, Bob Harvey, David Bradley and Don Howard who participated in three sports during their junior high years.

Darla Montgomery, a member of Girls' O Club seems to have attended a boys' meeting by mistake, however, the boys make her feel right at home.

John Marshall's Boys' O Club is made up of those boys who have lettered in any sport. Officers for 1961-62 include: President, Dave Sherrod, Vice-President, Mike Olsen, Secretary-Treasurer, Jim Biggers and Chaplain, Bob Baird.

Activities for the club are spread throughout the year. The O Club picnic is one of the outstanding social events. The club also sponsors the election of the All-Sports Queen. The identity of the girl who wins is a well-kept secret until the day of the announcement and crowning.

1961-62 sports at John Marshall saw excitement and heartbreak. The football squad annexed its best record in several years and the wrestling team made us proud to be John Marshall students. Cross Country teams captured trophies as did the swimming team. The Bear Tracks staff would like to recognize those boys who represented our school with enthusiasm in victory and dignity in defeat. Jim Jouret, Gary Fletcher, Bob Baird and Ron Featherstone who fought the football wars. Russ McAdams, Dave Griffith, Clyde Reed on the wrestling team. Kenny Potts on the basketball team and Jim Biggers, who placed in the state Cross Country meet.

To those senior athletes who participated for the last time as JM representatives, the staff says thank you for the long hours, aching muscles and the sportsmanship displayed—a good job—well done—

Homecoming Highlights Spark School Spirit

Excitement and enthusiasm reigned at John Marshall with the promise of the biggest Homecoming celebration ever. Anticipated activities were outlined for the eager students in the "Bear Brags" publication.

Candidates for "Comin' Home Queen" were introduced to the student body during the assembly. Pep Club officers portrayed the candidates, "Daisy Mae" Deason, "Martha" McLain, "Annabelle" Allen, "Freda" Ferguson, and "Hepzibah" Hardegree.

The dampness of the weather, seemingly a tradition, prevented the Bears from building a bonfire, but not from pulling a mighty victory over the Classen Comets. Because of the muddy field and cold weather, the coronation ceremonies were postponed.

The following day Homecoming Queen, Johnel Ferguson, was crowned amid joyous cheers in a special assembly.

The Homecoming Dance was the perfect ending for the week. A giant bear stood in honor of the victorious J.M. Bears. As the end of the dance drew near, so came the closing of a perfect Homecoming.

Queen Candidates Capture Cheers

as Parade Progresses

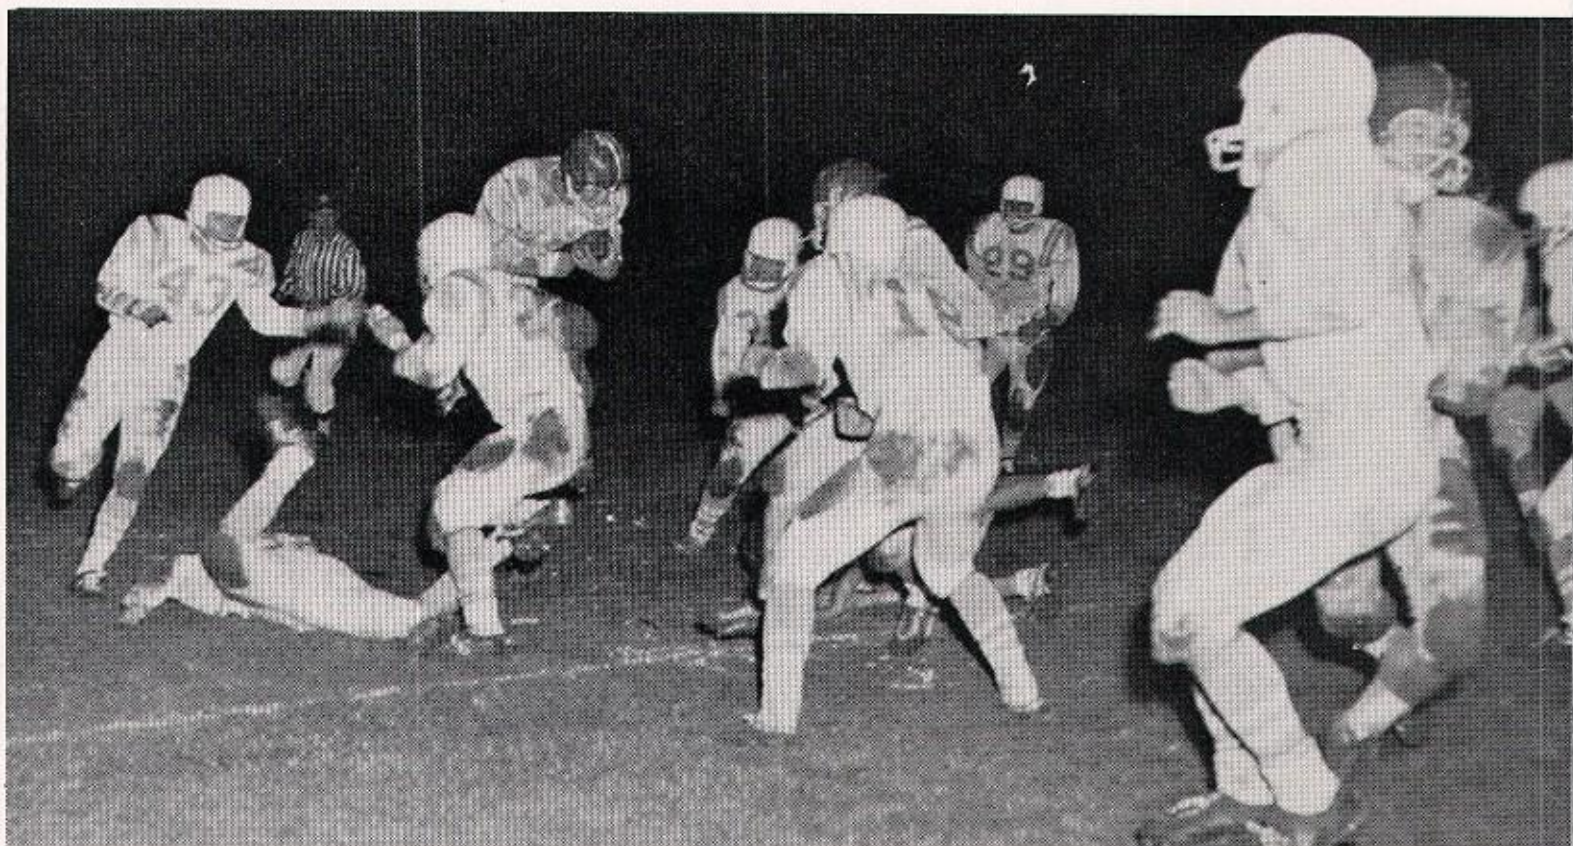

Highlighting the parade was the live bear borrowed from the circus. The mascot followed marching units and convertibles in the procession of the parade.

The enormous bear on the student council float led the parade as it wound through the streets of the John Marshall area.

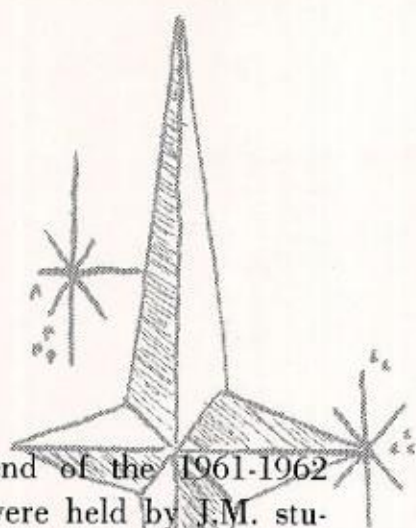

At Casady Square, the destination of the parade, students and cheerleaders participated in a spirited pep rally.

Marshall's Muddy Bears Slosh to Victory

Bleak winds blew as the John Marshall Bears charged forward to crash the Comets. In spite of the chilling weather, frostbitten fans snuggled in blankets and cheered the team on to victory.

Dance Daze

From the beginning until the end of the 1961-1962 school year many enjoyable dances were held by J.M. students. At the Howdy Hop, sponsored by the Student Council to welcome all Bears, both old and new, Sharon Gray and Vic Wiley were crowned as J.M.'s friendliest newcomers. A massive paper maché bear towered over the Homecoming Dance, celebrating John Marshall's proud victory. The Twist reigned supreme at the Bear Track staff's Christmas dinner-dance, as well as at the enjoyable Pep Club Dance, and to meet the challenge, J.M.'s own Dance Band, the Cashmeres, perfected several twist numbers in time for the Annual Sweetheart Ball. As the last note died away at the Junior-Senior Prom, students looked back on many magical moments.

"Double, double toil and trouble;
Fire burn, and caldron bubble," was the chant, as students brewed spirit for the coming year.

Annual Belle, Nancy Dooley, proudly shows her gold heart shaped charm to Annual Beau, Dick Tubbs, who was presented with a gold tie tack.

Bear Tracks' staff members take time away from work to enjoy their dinner dance at the Skirvin Tower Hotel.

Bears Show Spirit Receive Recognition

Bears watch teammates as they push on to victory.

The Bears' spirit soars as each game day arrives. Cheerleaders, Pep Club officers and athletes scurry through the halls in preparation for the assembly. Before school, clues to the spirit prevail as each student proudly wears a card saying: GO BEARS. The pep assembly takes place during the first class period. Clever skits and exciting talks hold the firm attention of every student.

Game time arrives and Marshallites flock to the scene. Wild cheers and other exhibitions typical of the school loyalty permeate the stadium or gymnasium. School photographers dedicate time and effort in order to immortalize the event. As the contest draws to an end the student body sings the traditional Alma Mater. But this is only seemingly the end.

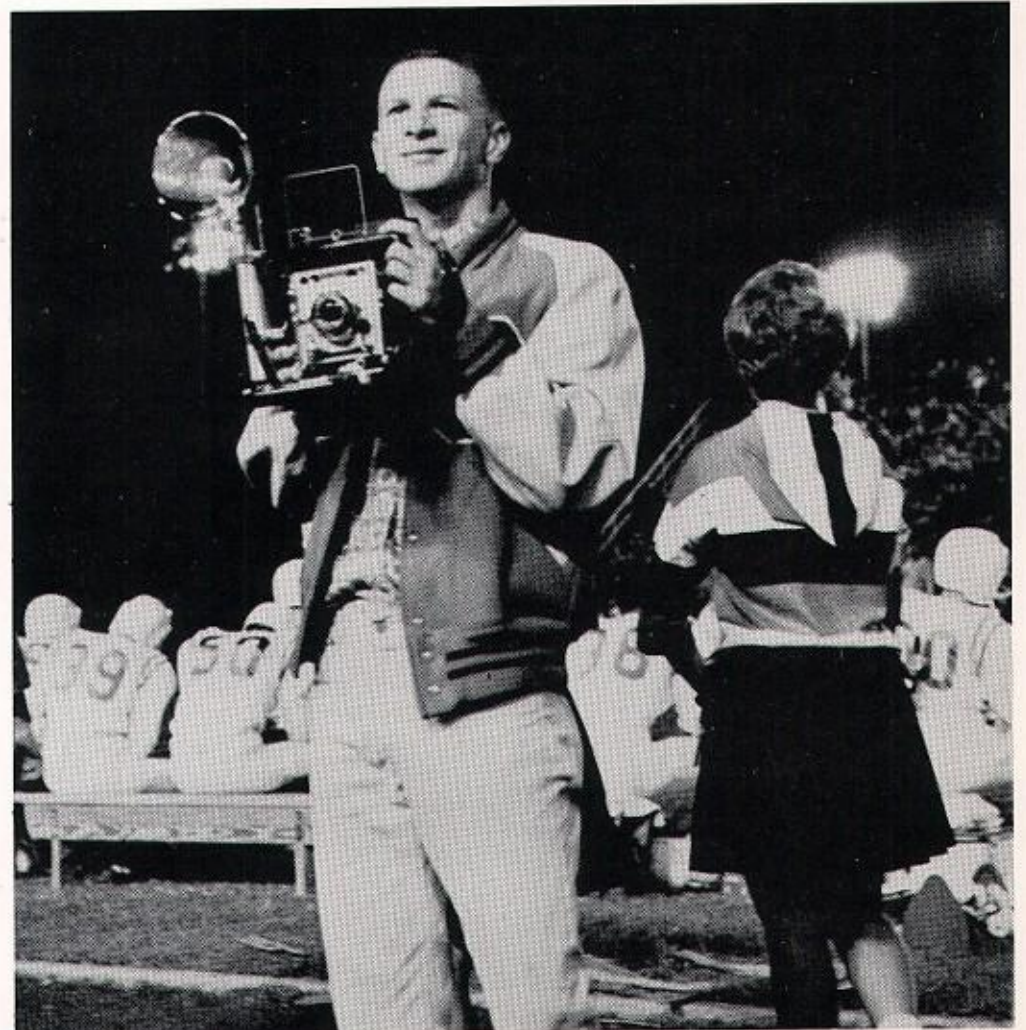

The year slowly draws to a close and with the nearness of the finale comes the awards for outstanding ability. John Marshall boasts an All-American football player and State-Champion Wrestler as well as many other top honors. These accomplishments are represented by trophies and medals, but more important is the fact that our school holds such ability. This is the ideal which incurs a sense of pride within the heart of every Marshallite.

Senior high wrestlers review reward received at recent tournament.

The School Is

A high school is many things. It is made up partly of buildings, and is greatly influenced by its location. But most of all, a high school is its people—the people who support it with their loyal spirit and achievements, its students, faculty, administration, employees and benefactors.

People!

Here are the faces of some of those people who make John Marshall a complete and living institution, deserving its proud reputation. They are the people who guide the growth and direction of our high school in its academic, athletic and fine art achievements, and help, each in his own way, to raise John Marshall's stature in the world of learning. They are truly ambassadors, representing John Marshall High School—A Proud Achievement

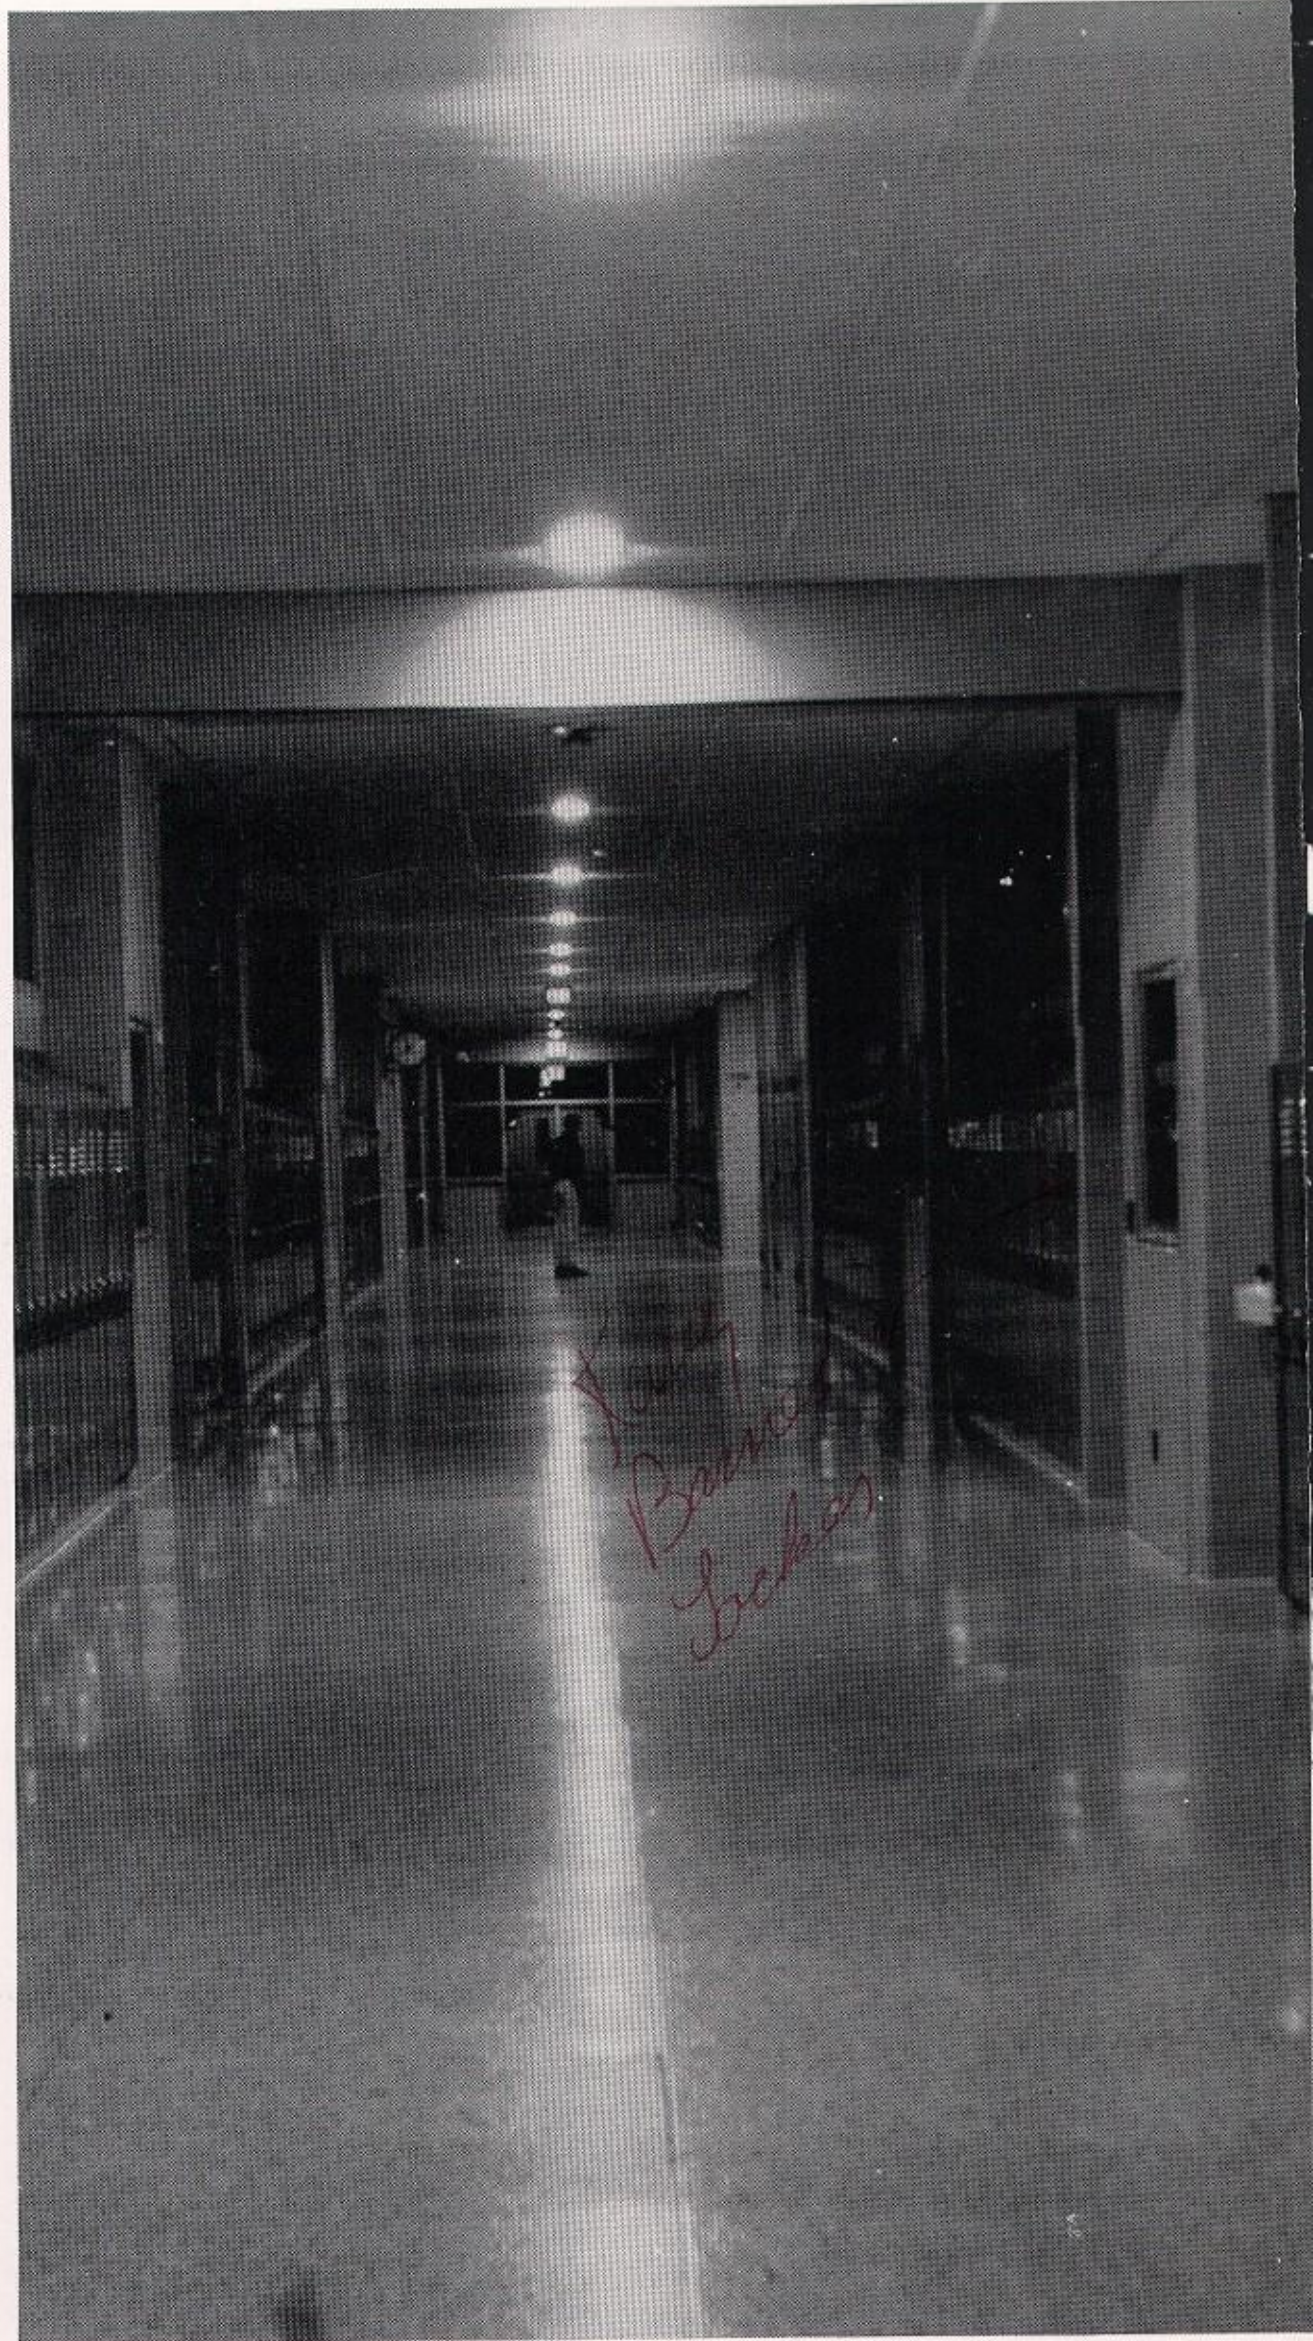

John Marshall's Bear Tracks staff feels as lonely as the figure in the picture because for them the completion of the 1962 annual marks the end of high school careers for senior members of the staff.

We have endeavored to bring to you, the students, a pictorial history of the year. Here is 1961-62, with the glitter of dances and parties, the color of sports events and the faces of our friends.

Without the aid of Rembrandt Studios who did our photography the Bear Tracks '62 would never have appeared. Taylor Publishing Company and its representatives, Barclay Curtis and Jerry Carroll made sense out of picture layouts and confused copy and shared our deadline anxieties. To the faculty and administration who bore with patience the interrupted classes and mixed up picture schedules a sincere thank you from the staff.

Bear Tracks '62 comes to a close and for the seniors it was the best year. They will remember it with fondness because it marks for them an end and a beginning. Next year's staff is already planning the Bear Tracks '63 and the senior staffers feel they are no longer needed. They view the empty halls with nostalgia for the memories they hold and open the door to the future.

1962 Bear Tracks Staff

An end and a beginning for the seniors.

Bear Tracks '62 does not have any advertising. The members of the staff take this opportunity to thank those merchants who in previous years have helped to make the annual a success.
